Bill to benefit area veterans

A bill that would create local funds to pay for benefits and services for veterans is being supported by the panos. The bill is H.B. 3364, which will allow counties to establish a veterans' fund. The funds can be used to pay for services such as education, transportation, housing, and medical care for veterans. A public hearing on the bill is scheduled for May 24.

Local producers should diversify

Producers wanting to rake more in their pockets by diversifying their products and expanding their own sales area may find success with the program to introduce local producers to new markets. The program, which is coordinated by the Texas Department of Agriculture, aims to help producers find new ways to increase their sales. The program includes various activities, such as workshops and educational events, to help producers learn more about marketing and sales techniques. The program is open to all producers, regardless of location or type of product. For more information, visit the program's website or contact the local office of the Texas Department of Agriculture.

There’s an extra mile between school and car

One of the assignments of Carriage House, an apartment block in Carthage, Texas, is to have a school car pool. The carpool is run by Mrs. Leggett and her daughter, Gail. The idea is that the kids can get a ride to school, and the drivers can get a break.

Mrs. Leggett has a daughter, Gail, who drives the bus. Gail goes to school, and Mrs. Leggett stays home. Mrs. Leggett doesn’t have a car, and she doesn’t have any money to buy one. She has to walk to the bus stop every day, and sometimes she has to wait for a long time.

Mrs. Leggett and Gail are very close friends, and they talk about everything. Mrs. Leggett is very kind, and she always helps Gail with her homework. Gail is very smart, and she always gets good grades.

Report change of name

By Jay McPherson
Social Security Manager

To effect a change in name, a newly married woman must submit a letter to the Social Security Administration. The letter must include the new name, the Social Security number of her husband, and the Social Security number of her former husband, if any. The letter must also state whether she is claiming Social Security benefits under her own name or under her husband's name.

For a change in name, a newly married man must submit a letter to the Social Security Administration. The letter must include the new name, the Social Security number of his wife, and the Social Security number of his former wife, if any. The letter must also state whether he is claiming Social Security benefits under his own name or under his wife's name.

Social Security makes no change for a name to be changed. The person who wants the name changed must use the Social Security Administration's form SS-5 to request a name change. The form must be signed and dated by the person who wants the name changed, and it must be sent to the Social Security Administration.

There are a number of reasons why a name change may be necessary. For example, a person may have been married and taken his wife's name, or he may have been divorced and taken back his own name. In either case, the person must claim Social Security benefits under the name that he or she uses most often.

A name change can be requested at any Social Security office. The person who wants to change his name must bring in a certified copy of the marriage license or divorce decree, and he or she must sign the form SS-5. The person must also pay a small fee.

The Social Security Administration will send a letter to the person who wants to change his name, telling him that his application has been accepted and that he will receive a new card. The new card will be sent to the Social Security office where the person submitted the application.
