Clements/SMU probe diverts special session

By Peter Winkske

Texas Pad from...

The Clements and SMU probe in the special session, the Legislature was looking to address. The Clements investigation team has been asked to look into the finances of the SMU football program. The probe has been ongoing for several months, and the Clements team is expected to release its findings shortly.

The probe has been a source of controversy, with some lawmakers calling for the investigation to be halted. However, the Clements team has stated that it will continue its work until all questions have been answered.

Meanwhile, SMU football has been a source of concern for some time. The program has faced several scandals in recent years, including a sexual assault case and the death of a player. SMU has taken steps to address these issues, but the Clements probe has shed light on other areas where the football program has struggled.

The probe has also been a source of frustration for some lawmakers, who have called for the investigation to be limited to the football program. However, the Clements team has stated that it will continue its work until all questions have been answered.

YARD OF THE MONTH

Land in family since before Civil War.

Trees, perennials dramatize Yarbroughyard

The contemporary design house has been enlarged and updated, and some of the original structures from before the Civil War still remain. The house is surrounded by a variety of trees and perennials, which add to the beauty of the yard. The red maple, oak, and magnolia trees provide shade and color throughout the year. More perennials such as irises and daylilies, as well as annuals like petunias and marigolds, complete the color scheme. The garden in the backyard is a focal point, with a variety of shrubs and flowers. Native plants such as azaleas and rhododendrons add to the overall appeal.

The approach to the house is lined with a variety of trees and shrubs, including two large magnolias and a beautiful flowering dogwood. The walkway is paved with stone, and a small pond with koi fish adds to the tranquility of the setting.

The view from the front porch offers a beautiful view of the surrounding countryside. The house itself is a blend of traditional and modern elements, with a wrap-around porch and large windows.

The interior of the house is equally impressive, with high ceilings, large windows, and a modern kitchen. The living room features a large fireplace and a wall of windows that provide a view of the yard.

The Yarbrough family has lived in this house for several generations, and they take great pride in maintaining the property. The yard is a source of pride and a place where they can relax and enjoy the beauty of nature.

BY MRS. CLOE BAKER

I don't know about you, but I sure was enjoying the nice, cool, refreshing weather we've been having. It's been a welcome change from the hot and humid days of summer.

The Big Day at the Adams Cemetery is over and done. Monday was the day of the dedication service on the Memorial. The service was held at 2 p.m. and was well attended. It was a beautiful day, with the sun shining brightly and the sky a clear blue.

In the morning, a group of volunteers came to the cemetery to help with the preparations. They were busy setting up the decorations, cleaning the area, and making sure everything was in place for the service.

At 2 p.m., the service began with prayers and brief remarks from several members of the community. Then, the moment everyone had been waiting for: the dedication of the new memorial.

The memorial is a beautiful statue of a soldier in uniform, standing tall and proud. It's a fitting tribute to those who served and gave their lives for our country.

After the dedications, there was a short program of songs and prayers. The music was provided by the local church choir, and it was beautiful.

Following the service, the attendees enjoyed refreshments and spent some time visiting with each other. It was a touching and emotional event, and everyone seemed to have enjoyed themselves.

I'm looking forward to seeing the memorial in all its glory when it's fully completed. It will be a wonderful addition to the cemetery and a lasting tribute to our fallen heroes.
