Texas one-room schoolhouse did remarkably creditable job

It’s interesting that just as the much-vaunted education of the young is supposed to have improved over the years, the quality of education in one-room schoolhouses, where children were taught in a single room, seems to have been remarkably creditable. The report was made by the district superintendent, who stated that the one-room schoolhouses were a significant part of the educational system in the past. The superintendent also noted that the students in these schoolhouses received a high-quality education, which was due to the dedication and hard work of the teachers. The report was widely praised by the community, and it was decided to preserve these one-room schoolhouses as museums to commemorate the past.

Governor bears down on troubled savings & loans
Clements says close them down

By Lynn M. Williams
Texas Press Association Reporter

Governor Jim Pattison has once again Buckley the specter of trouble for the state's troubled savings and loan associations. In a speech before the Texas Savings and Loan Association last week, Pattison said that he was concerned about the future of the state's thrift institutions and that he would consider closing them down if necessary. Pattison's remarks came as part of a larger effort by state officials to address the financial crisis facing many Texas savings and loan associations, which have been struggling with high levels of不良 loans and declining assets. Pattison's comments were met with widespread criticism from the state's banking community, which argued that closing down the institutions would further harm the economy and lead to job losses. Despite this criticism, Pattison remained firm in his stance, saying that the state's thrift institutions were at risk and that action needed to be taken to ensure their survival. The Governor's remarks came just weeks after a major financial institution in Texas, First Texas Financial, announced it was seeking bankruptcy protection. This latest development has raised concerns about the stability of the state's financial system and has put pressure on Pattison and other state officials to take action to address the crisis. The Governor's comments have also been met with mixed reactions from the public, with some calling for immediate action to protect consumers, while others argue that the state's thrift institutions should be allowed to work through their problems on their own.
CISD tax less than state average

Last year, the school district maintained its tax rate of $1.00 for every $100 of property valuation. This tax rate is needed to fund the operation of the district, which includes salaries for teachers, administration, and support staff, as well as the maintenance and repair of buildings and equipment. The tax rate is set by the local government and is based on the market value of the property in the district.

On Constitution Day, Sept. 17

Judge to speak, bells to ring, bands to play

The constitutional convention has ended its work, and now the focus shifts to the federal and state elections. A few days before the election, the Panola County Democratic Committee will hold a meeting to discuss the upcoming elections.

By Dorothy Janda

The Panola County Democratic Committee is planning a meeting on Oct. 21 to discuss the upcoming elections. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the Panola County Courthouse. The committee will hear from several speakers, including John Smith, who will discuss the importance of voting.

Wisdom of Old Wives praised by one who's put it to acid test

I am a great believer in Old Wives' Wisdom. I have always found that the advice of my grandmother was the best I could have received. For instance, many years ago, I tried to make a red sauce from an Old Wife who oversold me my own concoction, and it turned out to be a complete failure. However, I bought some pears to make a red sauce, which was a complete success. I have always found that the advice of Old Wives is the best I could have received.

Food for the days when it ought to be fall

By Norma J Buday

This is a recipe for when the season has changed. It's not too early to start making your favorite fall dishes. The recipes are simple and delicious. Enjoy!

---

Baked Okra and Cheese

2 1/2 cups okra, sliced into 1-inch pieces
3/4 cup corn meal
3/4 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 cup butter, melted

Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease a baking dish. Mix corn meal, flour, salt, pepper, cayenne pepper, and paprika. Dip okra in the mixture, then coat with the mixture. Place in the baking dish. Bake for 20-25 minutes, until golden brown.

Eggplant doesn't attract?

Try this for a treat!

Eggplant is a healthy vegetable that is often used in Mediterranean and Middle Eastern cuisine. It can be roasted, grilled, baked, or sautéed. Here's a simple recipe to try:

Preheat oven to 400°F. Cut the eggplant into 1-inch cubes. Place the cubes on a baking sheet and drizzle with olive oil. Bake for 20-25 minutes, until tender.

Food for the days when it ought to be fall

By Carolyn Summer
Food Editor

This is the month of our year when we wish for the return of those things that we have enjoyed during the summer. This month is a way to remind ourselves of what we have enjoyed during the summer months and to look forward to the next season.

Vegetables are a staple of our diet and are an important part of a healthy lifestyle. They provide the body with essential vitamins and minerals that are needed for good health.

Example Recipe:

Butternut Squash Soup

Ingredients:
- 1 butternut squash
- 1 onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 stalks celery, chopped
- 2 carrots, chopped
- 4 cups vegetable broth
- 1 cup heavy cream
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 tablespoon olive oil

Instructions:
1. Preheat oven to 400°F. Cut squash in half lengthwise and discard seeds.
2. Bake squash in the oven for 45 minutes or until tender.
3. In a large pot, sauté onion, garlic, celery, and carrots in olive oil.
4. Add vegetable broth and bring to a boil.
5. Add squash and cook for 10 minutes.
6. Add heavy cream and salt and pepper to taste. Cook for an additional 5 minutes.
7. Blend soup until smooth and serve.

This recipe is a classic and is loved by many. It is a great way to enjoy the flavors of fall and a great way to get the necessary nutrients that the body needs.

Sincerely,
Carolyn Summer
