Be on watch for loan ‘brokers’

By Dr. Wells, Author of General

We have been hearing stories of people getting hurt. It is a problem that is often overlooked. People are being sold loans at rates that are much higher than they need. We must keep an eye out for these ‘brokers’.

New York Work

Some lenders are not qualified to give loans. They set up shop in an area where people are less likely to ask questions. They need to be watched.

I was searching for a loan and was approached by a ‘broker’. They offered me a loan at an interest rate of 18%. I was able to get a loan from a local bank at 8%. Be careful when dealing with these people.

Gospel harmony alive and well in East Texas

By Dorothy Havrilli

There's hardly a person living in East Texas who doesn't realize the value of gospel music. There's a reason why gospel music is called "the soul's music." It speaks to the heart and the soul, and it provides comfort and solace in times of need. Gospel music is more than just music; it's a way of life. It's a way of connecting with others and with God. It's a way of expressing our faith and our hopes. It's a way of giving hope and inspiration to others. And it's a way of celebrating the joy of life.

One of the things that makes gospel music so special is its ability to transcend cultural and linguistic barriers. Whether you're from a small town in rural Texas or a bustling city in a big state, gospel music speaks to you in a way that's personal and universal. It's a music that's rooted in the soil of our faith and our culture, but it's also a music that's open to all who are seeking a deeper connection with the divine.

So why is gospel music so important? Because it's a way of reminding us of the goodness and the beauty of life, even in the darkest of times. It's a way of giving us hope and a reason to keep moving forward, even when the road ahead is unclear. It's a way of reminding us that we're all in this together, and that we can support each other in our journey. So let's keep on singing, and let's keep on spreading the joy of gospel music far and wide.

Principal addresses school board

Carthage High School principal Barry Martin was the program's keynote speaker at the Third Annual P Мы are just part of the Carthage Public Schools Family. No one understands the meaning of education better than our students. And no one understands the value of education better than our parents. The school board and the administration are committed to providing the best possible education for our students. So let's strive to make our schools a place where all children can learn. As we begin the new academic year, I urge all of us to remember why we are here: to help our students reach their full potential. Thank you for your support.

Wall Street dive said long overdue

After months of record highs, the stock market is now in a deep recession and prices are plunging through what looks like a bear market. The bull market lasted a little over a year, from the time the DJIA hit 2,000 points. It was the longest uninterrupted bull market on Wall Street.

Potlatch clean-up creates problems

Long before the Potlatch owners knew that they were going to close the mill, they had a lot of problems. The company said that they were going to close the mill because they were losing money. But the mill had been profitable for many years. The workers who lived near the mill were outraged. They said that the closure would destroy their livelihoods. The company also said that they were going to clean up the area around the mill. But the cleanup was never completed. The workers who lived near the mill said that they were not consulted about the cleanup.
