Washington arrogance scary

Secretary of State Wright?

There is an article about in the Washington Post that is a real eye-opener for those who care about our Republic. It is about the Secretary of State, who has been appointed to office with his political views and his personal agenda.

There are a few things that we can take away from this article. First, there is a lot of talk about the Secretary of State's role in the government. He is a crucial player in the decision-making process at the highest levels of government. Second, there is a lot of emphasis on the Secretary of State's personal agenda. This is concerning because it suggests that the Secretary of State is not acting in the best interests of the country.

We also need to be aware of the Secretary of State's influence on other areas of government. For example, the Secretary of State has a lot of power in foreign policy. This is because the Secretary of State is often the one who represents the United States in international meetings.

Overall, this article is a wake-up call. We need to be aware of the Secretary of State's influence on our government and make sure that he is acting in the best interests of the country. We need to hold him accountable for his actions and ensure that he is not acting in his own personal agenda.

Mother, daughter study nursing at PJC, aspire to help others

When Patricia 'Titie' Titie finished college, her dream was to work as a nurse and help others. At Panola Junior College, she immersed herself in nursing classes and found her calling. After working several months in the field, Titie felt ready to advance her education. With the support of her parents, she enrolled in the nursing program at PJC.

“Nursing is more than just a job,” she said. “It’s about making a difference in people’s lives.”

Titie’s journey was not without its challenges. She had to balance her studies with her work obligations, but she was determined to succeed. Her dedication paid off, and she graduated top of her class.

“Nursing is a rewarding field,” she said. “I love helping others and making a positive impact on their lives.”

Titie’s experience at PJC has prepared her for a fulfilling career in nursing. She is excited to continue her education and contribute to the healthcare community.

Historically, the role of the nurse has evolved significantly. From providing basic care and support to patients, to becoming integral to the medical decision-making process, the profession has grown in complexity. Today's nurses are not only caregivers but also partners in patient care and advocates for their patients.

Christmas traditions, symbols described by Sonny

Advent dramatizes meaning of Christmas

By Dorothy Holland

In four short weeks, the season of Advent will begin, a time of spiritual preparation and expectation. Advent is the time when we remember the Christmas season of Old Testament prophecy and hope. It is a time when we remember the birth of Jesus Christ, the fulfillment of God's promises. It is a time when we remember the joy, love and peace that Christmas brings.

Advent is the time when we remember the birth of Jesus Christ, the fulfillment of God's promises. It is a time when we remember the joy, love and peace that Christmas brings.

The first week of Advent is called "Advent Week One." During this week, we remember the time when Mary was promised to be the mother of Jesus. The second week is called "Advent Week Two." During this week, we remember the time when Joseph was promised to be the husband of Mary. The third week is called "Advent Week Three." During this week, we remember the time when Jesus was promised to be the Son of God. The fourth week is called "Advent Week Four." During this week, we remember the time when the world was promised to be saved through Jesus Christ.

During Advent, we remember the joy, love and peace that Christmas brings.

The Advent season is a time of spiritual preparation and expectation. It is a time when we remember the birth of Jesus Christ, the fulfillment of God's promises. It is a time when we remember the joy, love and peace that Christmas brings.
