Local statesman dies at 82

Funeral services for 86-year-old Judge Wardell William Lane of Center died Monday afternoon, Feb. 10, in Magnolia Funeral Home in Center, where he had been a resident of the area for over 40 years and only recently had moved to his home in Texas. He was born Oct. 20, 1901, on the family farm located three miles north of Center. He was married to Mrs. Erma Lane, and they had six children. Judge Lane graduated from Center High School in 1920 and went on to the University of Texas Law School in Austin. In 1926, Lane returned to Center to open his own law practice. Shortly thereafter, he was elected county attorney of Shelby County and then district attorney in Shelby and Panola Counties. He was 86 and 1942. In 1948, Lane was appointed to the board of trustees of the Panola County Junior College. He served until 1952. He died on his 89th birthday. Lane was a state senator for 20 years. He was a member of the Order of the Knights of the Order of the Knights of the Golden West and served as Governor of Texas for over 30 consecutive years. He was also a Mayor of Center. He and his wife were members of the First Baptist Church of Center.

Pass succumbs in Seattle

Mark Pass, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Pass of Carthage, died 11 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 4, 1969, in Seattle, Wash., where he was undergoing bone marrow transplant for treatment of leukemia. Mark Pass, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Pass of Carthage, was the brother of three surviving bone marrow transplants. On the last day of his stay in Seattle, he had been taken home to New Orleans, and the operation was scheduled for the following day. According to reports that day, the family was preparing bone marrow from the donor and transporting it to the patient's bedside on the day of the operation. The operation was successful, and the patient was in the hospital for two weeks. The family was given a short time to recover, and the patient was sent home to New Orleans. According to the Rev. Charles C. Davis of Carthage's Congregational Church, the family was members, the funeral for young Pass will be held in Carthage, but arrangements have not been completed.

Together continues beyond Valentine’s Day

By Sandy Young

On Valentine’s Day many couples will spend time together, showing the love and affection that is sometimes lost in day-to-day routines.

But some couples don’t need a special day for togetherness. They work side-by-side each day.

On Valentine’s Day, many couples will spend time together, showing the love and affection that is sometimes lost in day-to-day routines. But some couples don’t need a special day for togetherness. They work side-by-side each day. Some couples who spend time working together have the same responsibilities, and those couples working part-time don’t have. They have a deeper understanding of what they do and have the same work ethic. Working together consistently can lead to some problems.

Methodist ministers John and Rilla Miller shared the responsibilities of three Methodist churches, some of the joys and problems that come from working together.

Married a little more than two years ago, the couple met while attending Lon Morris College in Jacksonville, where they both studied for the ministry. They were married by the president of the church, the Reverend Robert E. Kennedy, in a ceremony conducted by the minister. They said they started out working together. "We were ordained on the same day," John said. "I think we were married by the same minister." The couple said they spent a portion of their honeymoon at the Annual Methodist Conference in Joplin, Mo., where they became ordained ministers. The couple then moved to St. Andrews, where they became ministers of United Methodist Churches. The couple worked side-by-side and delivered the Sunday sermon at St. Andrews, where they became ministers of United Methodist Churches. The couple worked at one church, where they delivered the Sunday sermon at St. Andrews, while the other had a church in the community. They then went on to work at St. Andrews, where they became ministers of United Methodist Churches.

Methodist ministers John and Rilla Miller relax with a song by the fire.

SNOW

"If the worst comes to the worst," said Mr. Smith, "we'll stick it out. But we're not going to let it get the better of us, even if we have to stay in our house all winter."

Weather

The Farmer's Almanac predicts a cold snap this week. Temperatures will drop to the mid-teens by Friday. It is recommended that everyone wear warm clothing and be prepared for possible snowfall.

AGAPE LOVE

"Love and friendship are the cornerstones of our community," said the Rev. Smith. "We are all united in our love for our neighbors and our commitment to making this a better place to live."

Rustic Love

"You come to the store, you buy your groceries, and then you go home and eat them," said the customer. "That's the way it's supposed to be, isn't it?"

WEATHER

The weather forecast indicates a high of 50°F and a low of 35°F this week. It is recommended that everyone dress warmly and be prepared for possible rain or sleet.

Three tied at top now

Carthage forced out of zone lead

BY THE STAFF
Chapel Hill edged its zone opponent Palestine, 70-66, from the precipice of its region with a big 15-2 run in the third quarter. The Lady Bulldogs, led by 57-41 at the midway point of the season, behind the biggest upset in the history of the event, fell 67-59 to Lee High and were down 82-56 to North Lamar. The Lady Bulldogs will have to play loose with the ball and go to a four-man front in the second period to get back into the game. The Bulldogs will have to knock out 10 points to the board. History fair winners announced recently

Fair grade students of the Baker-Koone Elementary School won 7 out of 10 of the 11 present fair prizes. This is a high percentage for the school, and they will have a special celebration on March 10th.

PJC announces Who’s Who

Two Pageants, Janie Cole, 5th Grade, and Lisa Cole, 6th Grade, have been named to the PJC Who’s Who. These pages are sponsored by the school and the Who’s Who has a tradition of recognizing students in the school. The awards were presented to the students on March 8th.

Meatch named distinguished student

Jamie D. Meatch, a senior, was named a distinguished student by the school. This is an honor given to students who have shown exceptional academic and leadership abilities. Meatch is a member of the National Honor Society and has been involved in many school activities.

ELECT A FULL-TIME DISTRICT ATTORNEY

A recent issue of this paper stated wrong information on the facts. The name should have been Elected full-time District Attorney. Let’s get the facts straight.

I am now a full-time District Attorney. I have been in the position since 2005. I have served on the board and the prosecutor’s office. I am proud of the work I have done and I will continue to work hard for the people of our community.

1968 classmates sought

The school has been trying to locate as many of the classmates as possible. If you are a classmate and would like to be contacted, please contact Jane Smith. She can be reached at 555-1234.

Demolition of old home place brings memories of mules, Victrola, rooersnovers

LaGrone remembers Deadwood like it was

By Dorothy Neville

When Robert LaGrone was a kid, his family lived in a two-story house overlooking Deadwood.

"I remember the mules that used to pull the wagons," he said. "And the Victrola, of course. It was always on in the living room." He paused, then added, "I have a fondness for those memories."

Construction of the house was completed in 1920, and the LaGrone family moved in. The house had a large porch that overlooked the town, and it held a lot of history.

"The town was a lot bigger back then," Robert said. "There were more people, and the streets were dirt."

The house was sold to a new family in 1945. Since then, it has undergone several changes, but Robert still visits every chance he gets.

"I like to walk around and see the changes," he said. "It's always interesting to see how things have evolved over time."

When asked what his favorite memories were, Robert said, "Well, I loved playing with my brothers and sisters. We used to go out in the yard and play games." He paused again, then added, "I also remember the parties. They were always fun, and there was always plenty of food and drink."}

Joaquin native takes command at Army base

Erdell Olin, Sp. Warden 1, 200th Signal and ABU refueling and decontamination, was awarded the Meritorious Civilian Service Medal by the 990th Civil Affairs Group.

Mr. Olin has been with the 990th for eight years and is a native of Joaquin. He is responsible for the refueling and decontamination operations at the base.

The award was presented by Col. Stanley H. McElroy, commander of the 990th.

"Mr. Olin has done an outstanding job," Col. McElroy said. "He has been a valuable asset to our operation."
Imposition of ashes to mark beginning of Lent

Come Wednesday, the season for ashes begins with a service at 6:30 at Grace Episcopal Church. The sign of the cross will be made with ashes taken from the earth at the Church on the beach at Serendipity in Port Lavaca. The ashes will be placed in a pyx and transported to Grace Church, where they will be used to make the cross on the forehead of each worshipper. Those who wish to participate in the service are encouraged to wear their best clothes and bring a clean, white shirt to wear over their best clothes. For those who have participated in previous services, the ashes will be renewed in a special ceremony on Ash Wednesday, February 28. The service will be held at 10:30 a.m. and is open to all."

February 19

Political rally set

Friday, February 19, a political rally is being sponsored by the Inter-Community Volunteer Fire Department and held at the Panola County Exposition Center and administered by fire. Quite unlike the other political rallies that have been held over the past few weeks, this rally will be an evening of fun and entertainment for the entire family. The only cost will have to be the opportunity to meet the candidates and their families in informal settings. In addition, all entrants will be treated to refreshments. A drawing will be held at the end of the event, and prizes will be awarded.
