Mattox files insurance suit

Mattox files insurance suit

AUSTIN—Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox declared war on eight companies accused of consorting with insurance interests to increase rates, saying the suit was the most important the state had ever brought to regulate insurance rates.

Mattox's action against the insurance companies was the latest in a string of suits by state officials seeking to bring the power of government to bear on the insurance industry. It comes at a time when the state's insurance rate levels are among the highest in the country. The suit was filed in federal court in Austin, where Mattox is based.

In a press release, Mattox said, "I am taking this action because I believe the insurance industry is not acting in the best interests of the public. I am not saying that the industry is always at fault, but I believe that there is a need for more regulation. This is a huge industry, with a lot of money at stake. I am not saying that this is the only way to solve the problem, but it is a step in the right direction."

The suit names eight companies, including Allstate Insurance, State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company, and Progressive Insurance. Mattox alleged that the companies conspired to increase rates on car insurance in Texas by charging higher prices for policies than necessary. He said the companies had made "substantial" profits from the scheme.

Mattox's suit is the latest in a series of legal actions by Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox against the insurance industry. In recent years, Mattox has taken on a number of high-profile cases, including a lawsuit against the oil industry and a suit against the tobacco companies.

Among those present were Biggs' son, Margaret, his daughter, Mary, and his grandchildren, Charles and Jim. The dedication began with a speech by Margaret, followed by a prayer led by Jim. Then, the diamond was officially dedicated by the Beckville City Council. The final touch was a ribbon cutting, performed by Margaret, Mary, and Jim. The new diamond will be a fitting tribute to Biggs, who dedicated his life to the sport of baseball and to the community he loved.

Kiwani donates funds to Special Olympics

By Sandy Young

Canada's major sporting event is the annual Special Olympics Games, which have been held in Canada since 1980. The Games are open to anyone with an intellectual disability and provide a chance for them to showcase their skills in various sports. This year, the Kiwanis Club of downtown has donated funds to support the Games.

Coaches and athletes from the Special Olympics team have been busy training for the upcoming event. They have been working hard to prepare themselves for the challenges they will face during the competition.

The Special Olympics Games promote friendship, understanding, and respect for all individuals with intellectual disabilities. They provide a platform for athletes to express themselves through sports and develop their skills.

This donation from the Kiwanis Club is a great way to support the athletes and help make the Special Olympics Games a success.

Mr. Dick Haynes is asking for your vote for County Commissioner. Mr. Haynes was my neighbor for 3 years and I want to tell you he is a fair and just man.

My definition of a Kiwanian is a supervising worker and this is what most people mean by that. They don’t need a lot of pressure or being after them they need a worker who will supervise appropriately.

Mr. Haynes is a leader and a dedicated worker to whom I'll be glad to introduce.

I do not feel in Precinct 3. But I know what Mr. Haynes stands for and take responsibility for the people of this precinct should consider this book.

Remember to vote April 23, 1983.
