Cuban refugees
jailed in Panola

By Sandy Young and John Compton
Nine Cuban refugees were turned over to the Panola County Detention Center Thursday afternoon by U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) officials. The county will house the refugees for an undetermined length of time, according to J.J.
DeFrance, detention center director.

In October 1980, the county entered into an agreement with INS to house refugees. The default states the county will be paid $99 per day for each refugee housed in the county facility.

DeFrance said the county will house the nine for at least eight months, maybe longer.

He said he does not feel housing the refugees will create an overcrowding problem at the detention center, which will hold up to 40 refugees.

DeFrance said the INS would not disclose the names of the refugees.

According to the administrator, a number of inmates housed at cell in the facility was in the late 70's
when a man in the back of a bus was shot. No students were hurt then either.

I felt 'moved' to write this

I have something to say. A matter that is dear to my heart. A message that needs to be shared. To help others understand and appreciate.

A move across the river is not necessarily easy, but when you're moving to a new place, it's all part of the experience. For me, it was a day filled with adventure, excitement, and a little bit of worry.

The movers arrived early in the morning. They loaded up the truck and started moving to the new house. The journey was long, but I was determined to be as brave as possible.

When we arrived at the new house, I was overwhelmed by the new environment. I could feel the energy of the place, and it was both exciting and intimidating.

I think it's important to remember that moving is a big deal. It's a change, and change can be scary. But it's also an opportunity to start fresh.

So, here's to the next chapter. To new beginnings. To adventures yet to come.

The end.

PJC blanks Dogs

By TED LEACH

First baseman Bobby Chast got a key hit in the fifth inning when the Bears scored three runs and then blanked the Dogs two more in the last three frames to give PJC a 5-0 win over South Texas Conference rival Panola.

The Bears went to 30-0-1 overall and 18-0-1 in the conference while the Dogs fell to 0-34 overall and 0-18-1 in the conference.

The next batter, Reggie Green, struck out, but the final pitch was dropped and Chast scored. When the Dogs came up to bat in the bottom half of the inning, the Bears got the first two batters out and then went on to get the last three, ending the inning with a 5-0 win.

The Bears have a tough road ahead as they travel to East Texas Baptist University for a two-game series starting on Friday. The Bears split the two games, losing 12-11 and winning 8-2.

Low-back pains

common problem

by Kaye HENRY

Lower back pain is a common problem that affects many people, especially those who spend long hours sitting or standing in one position. If you're experiencing lower back pain, there are several things you can do to help ease the discomfort.

1. Move around: Sitting for long periods of time can put strain on your lower back. Make sure to get up and move around every hour, even if it's just for a short walk.

2. Stretch: Simple stretches can help to relieve lower back pain. Try lying on your stomach with your knees bent and your feet on the floor. Reach your right arm over your head and your left arm down to the floor. Hold for 10 seconds and switch sides.

3. Use heat or ice: Applying heat or ice to your lower back can help to reduce swelling and pain. Use a heat pad or a hot water bottle for 15-20 minutes, or use ice wrapped in a towel for 10-15 minutes.

4. Avoid lifting heavy objects: Lifting heavy objects can put strain on your lower back. If you need to lift something heavy, ask someone else to help you or use a rolling dolly or hand truck.

5. Use ergonomic furniture: Make sure that your work area is set up in an ergonomic way to reduce strain on your lower back. Use a chair that supports your lower back, and make sure that your computer screen is at eye level.

If your lower back pain persists or becomes severe, it is important to see a healthcare professional for an evaluation and possible treatment.

Many customs date from earliest Christian times

Ancient Easter practices retain original religious significance

By Dorothy Hovick

Easter is a time of joy, love, and remembrance. In Greek Orthodox churches in New York and throughout the world, Easter is celebrated with great enthusiasm. The day begins with a special service at midnight, followed by a sunrise service at dawn. These services are attended by thousands of people from all over the world.

On Good Friday, the day before Easter, many Orthodox churches hold services throughout the night. These services are known as "Trinity Services" and are held in the dark, with only a single candle lit. The services last for hours and are attended by thousands of people.

On Easter Sunday, the day of the resurrection, Orthodox churches hold a special service called the "Great Vespers," which is held in the early morning hours. The service is followed by a special procession, where people carry torches and light candles as they make their way to the church. The service is then followed by the "Paschal (Easter) Service," which is held in the late morning.

The Great Vespers and the Paschal Service are both very important in Orthodox Easter celebrations. The Great Vespers is the final service of the Old Testament, and the Paschal Service marks the beginning of the New Testament. Both services are filled with songs, prayers, and readings from the Bible.

Throughout the day, Orthodox churches host special events and services, such as the "Paschal Brunch," which is held at noon. These events are open to the public and are a great way to experience the joy and love of Orthodox Easter.

Easter is a time of renewal and hope, and Orthodox churches across the world celebrate this time with great joy and enthusiasm. The traditions and practices of Orthodox Easter are a wonderful way to learn more about the history and meaning of this important holiday.

When the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James and Salome, having bought sweet spices, that they might go and anoint him. And very early in the morning, the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulchre at the rising of the sun.

And when they saw that the stone was rolled away, they entered into the sepulchre; and when they looked, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment; and they were afraid.

And he said unto them, Be not afraid: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: he is risen; he is not here: behold where they have laid him.

And they went out, and fled from that place, and hid themselves: and they were stricken with great sorrow.

The floral symbol was the rose, which would explain the origin of the name "Easter." The rose, with its bright colors, symbolizes rebirth and new life, which is exactly what Easter is all about.

The celebration of Easter has been a tradition in many cultures for centuries. In many parts of the world, people gather in churches and homes to celebrate Easter with special services, songs, and feasts.

The story of Easter is a powerful reminder of the importance of faith and the power of love. It is a time to celebrating the resurrection of Jesus Christ and the hope it brings to the world. The traditions and practices of Easter are a wonderful way to learn more about the history and meaning of this important holiday.
