Carthage named southern office

By John Coleman

Carthage's newest small industries announcement this week will bring its Georgia office and relocating it to Carthage.

West Forest Products, recently released the information late Wednesday and the announcement was made Thursday at the Industrial Appreciation Luncheon held at Panola Junior College.

The surprise announcement was made by the Applegate, post president of the Panola County Development Foundation. Applegate said that the move, Carthage would become the new Southern Division head quarters.

Chamber president Mike Wheel stands by as Bill Applegate announced Lindsey Forest plans at Thursday's industrial luncheon.

County purchase priority questioned after survey

By John Coleman

The Panola County officials say they are purchasing vehicles at a discount rate and are shopping over at the state to save money. At the same time, the county bought a number of buses from Panola County School District and the Panola County School District and the Panola County School District and the Panola County School District were eliminated.

The matter was first brought to the attention of the Panola County Paper and the public through a story submitted by Ben Herson, a candidate for county commissioner.

According to the Panola County Paper story, the county bought a number of buses purchased the county for a $50,000 in 1997 and $82,000 through March of the year that has been placed with Toyota Automotive in Carthage. The buses were not in use when the county bought the buses from the Panola County School District.

SUMMARY

TO THE VOTERS OF PANOLA COUNTY:

I would like very much to express my thanks to all those who have been so kind as to write letters of support. I feel very strongly that this is the best course of action for me to take in these trying times. I am confident that with your help, we can achieve our goals.

First, I can assure you that the letter-writing campaign will continue. I believe that by reaching out to individual constituents and offering a personal connection, we will be able to build a stronger relationship with the people of Panola County. This approach has proven effective in the past, and I am confident that it will continue to be successful.

Second, I would like to thank all those who have taken the time to write letters expressing support. It is heartening to know that so many people share my vision for the future of our community. I look forward to continuing to work with you all in this important endeavor.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

Budget makers are oil watchers

By Loyd Williams

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the price of oil hits record highs, budget makers are putting on their oil watches. The United States is a major oil importer and high oil prices are pushing up costs across the economy. While the government has been careful not to pass these costs on directly, they are still felt through higher taxes and inflation. As a result, policymakers are closely monitoring oil prices and are ready to take action if necessary.

Traffic-hour rocking promotes Rock-A-Thon

My Country Home

Tight trays on the table

With green-eyed glee, Margaret Tuttle, 77, and her husband, James Tuttle, 82, have been enjoying the golden years of retirement. They have been hosting a weekly tea party for their friends and family, a tradition that has brought them joy and laughter for many years.

Traffic-hour rocking promotes Rock-A-Thon

As one of the founders of the local Rock-A-Thon, Mrs. Tuttle shared her perspective on the event.

"Traffic-hour rocking is a wonderful way to promote community involvement," she said. "It's like a living advertisement for the benefits of rocking chairs and a great way to encourage people to get out and enjoy the fresh air and the company of others."

"We had a fantastic turnout this year, with many people coming out to enjoy the rocking and the music. It was a lot of fun and a great way to raise awareness for the importance of rocking chairs in our lives."

In conclusion, Mrs. Tuttle emphasized the importance of community involvement and the joy that can come from simple, everyday activities like traffic-hour rocking.

Religion of humanity' enjoys established status, says White

By Dorothy Newby

The bill "Religion of humanity" has been introduced in the state legislature this year, and if it passes, it would establish "religion of humanity" as an established religion in the state. The bill would also provide for the establishment of a religious education program in public schools.

Some have criticized the legislation, arguing that it would lead to the establishment of a "state religion." Others have praised it, arguing that it would provide a formal way to teach about spirituality and morality in public schools.

White believes that the legislation would benefit the state, as it would provide a framework for teaching about spirituality and morality in public schools. He also believes that it would help to promote a more inclusive society, as it would recognize the diversity of beliefs in the state.

White's legislation is currently moving through the legislative process, and it is unclear whether it will be passed into law. However, White is hopeful that it will eventually become a reality, as he believes that it is an important step towards creating a more inclusive and equitable society.

Religion of humanity is a term that refers to the idea of a single, universal religion that encompasses all human beliefs. It is a concept that has been around for many years, and it is gaining popularity in some parts of the world.

White's legislation is similar to other proposals that have been introduced in other states, and it is likely that it will be discussed in other state legislatures as well. The legislation is an important step towards creating a more inclusive and equitable society, and it is hoped that it will be passed into law soon.
Local residents get to look into the past by looking through the 1947 Mustang Convertible and the 1952 Ford Meteor Delux in front of their Carriage house. On April 23rd, the local residents will be hosting the town's annual antique show for their friends and neighbors. These 10 friends will receive prizes ranging from picture frames to small items, all of which were made by local artists and photographers.
