Workers' costs to rise
New insurance plan will increase costs

By John Galazan
Washington News Editor

The Texas Legislature has granted its approval to a plan introduced by State Senator Tom Smith, D-Austin, that would increase the costs of insurance for workers.

The plan, which is expected to increase the cost of insurance by $50 a month for average workers, is modeled after the federal government's recent decision to increase the cost of insurance for federal employees.

Sen. Smith said the plan is designed to make insurance more affordable for workers and to reduce the burden on employers.

"Workers are paying too much for insurance," Smith said. "This plan will help reduce the cost of insurance and make it more affordable for workers."
Court rules against Texas AG

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court on Thursday ruled that the state's attorney general cannot act as the government's legal advocate in a case before the high court.

The court ruled in the case of State v. Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton, who has been charged with securities fraud.

The court said that the attorney general is required to represent the state's interests as a matter of law, and cannot advocate for the state's position in its own case.

The case involves a disputed contract between a private company and the state of Texas. The company had filed a lawsuit against the state, alleging that the state had breached the contract.

State and federal courts have ruled in favor of the state, but the company has continued to press its case.

The court's ruling means that Paxton cannot continue to represent the state's interests in the case, and that the state must now find a new attorney to represent its position.

The court's decision is likely to be appealed.

TRAUMA PROGRAM REDUCES DEATHS

On May 19, 1990, East Texas Medical Center Hospital in Longview welcomed four new doctors who will help staff the hospital's new trauma center.

The center was opened in response to a recent increase in the number of severe injuries being treated at the hospital.

The new doctors, who are board-certified in trauma surgery, will work closely with the hospital's existing staff to provide the best possible care for patients with severe injuries.

The hospital's trauma center is one of only a few in the region to offer this level of care.

RURAL INSURANCE

To the Editor:

I would like to thank all of the insurance companies for their efforts in providing insurance to the rural community. It is my belief that insurance companies should be providing insurance to the rural community at a reasonable cost.

I would also like to thank the local farmers for their efforts in providing insurance to the rural community. It is my belief that farmers should be providing insurance to the rural community at a reasonable cost.

NOT A GOOD EXAMPLE

As noted in a previous letter, the recent incident at the football game was a “good example” of what is wrong with the current system.

It is unfortunate that the young people involved in this incident were not held accountable for their actions. It is my belief that the current system is not working.

I believe that the current system should be reformed to better address the needs of the community.

Sincerely,

Tradesfolk Day modeled on old-time market

By Dorothy Martin
Right across the street from Panola College's Fine Arts Center, a group of artists, craftsmen, and vendors will gather this weekend to celebrate Tradesfolk Day. The event, which begins Friday evening, will continue through Saturday in the Fine Arts Center and the Panola College Student Center.

This is the second annual Tradesfolk Day, and it is modeled after old-time markets and fairs. Local artisans and vendors will gather to offer a wide variety of goods to the public, much like they did in the past.

The event features over 50 vendors selling everything from handmade jewelry to wooden bowls and quilts. There will also be demonstrations of traditional crafts such as weaving, quilting, and wood carving. A variety of food vendors will serve up homemade dishes, and live music will keep the atmosphere lively.

Tradesfolk Day will run from 5 to 9 p.m. on Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday. Admission is free.

Sweet summer glory of native peaches here

Versatile, ever-pleasurable peach makes summer meals memorable

Early varieties already on market

Sigs points to ‘real good’ peach crop

County peaches should be plentiful despite spring freeze

Natives are all: It won’t be the biggest crop, but it will be a good one, said the Texas Department of Agriculture. While the state freeze lasted some 20 minutes, early varieties were lenient. This is, however, the Texas freeze simply couldn’t get to the peaches. We are in just about normal production after flowering.

Early Texas peaches are mostly in the Rio Grande Valley and the state’s eastern counties around Robstown and Brownsville. The harvest is ready to start in May. The peaches tear in the valley, but they are not ready to pick at harvest time.

Although peach trees are similar to apple trees and bountiful in much of the South, these peaches can be found in this month. They originated in China, and are made their way to Europe by way of Italy and Rome. Both Spanish and Italian are still available.

For a Sunday story about peach picking, pickers should go to the town of San Edgardo near Brownsville. The Peach Orchard is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

There are, of course, other orchards in the county where pickers are welcome, or will be later in the month.
