Dryness in pastures thinning some herds

Post Staff Report

Despite a wet rain late last month, Panola County farmers and ranchers are suffering through one of the worst droughts in almost 50 years, due in part to higher water demand for livestock and irrigation. In addition, several dried up wells are making many farming and ranching operations worse. Some ranchers are finding it difficult to feed their cattle during the drought conditions. Many have already begun to ship out high feed bills because of the expense of buying feed.

The USDA Livestock Hetero news report issued Thursday the condition of cattle was rated overall as good in 100% of the report.

"We have had about 1,000 head go through this area last year," he said Friday. "This is our most critical feeding period. We need to get the cattle through it now."

Still, he said, "We have had many problems with our cattle this year, but we are getting through it."

Panola County is one of the 15 counties in Texas that was classified under Alert 1, the highest alert level. The report states that "the supply of feed for livestock is low in most areas."

CISD expresses concern over delinquent taxes

By Anthony Coleman

The Conroe Independent School District is expressing concern over the number of delinquent property taxes in its jurisdiction. CISD spokesperson said that the district has received a substantial number of complaints from property owners regarding the delinquency of their taxes. He added that the district is working closely with the county tax assessor to ensure that all delinquent taxes are collected in a timely manner. The spokesperson also mentioned that CISD is exploring the possibility of implementing a new tax collection system to improve efficiency and reduce the number of delinquent taxes. "We are committed to ensuring that all property owners are aware of their tax obligations and that we receive prompt payment," the spokesperson said. "We appreciate the understanding and cooperation of our property owners in this matter."

FBI checking into vet land loans

By Janet Wilson

The FBI has opened an investigation into the land loans made to Vietnam veterans through the Department of Veterans Affairs. The program, which was created to help veterans buy homes, has been under scrutiny for several years due to concerns about fraud and abuse.

Phyllis Wright

Counsel and Family Law

Wright, a prominent attorney, announced today that she will be running for congress in the upcoming election. Wright has been a vocal advocate for women's rights and has written several books on the subject.

Bruno Casares

In a move to increase transparency, the Department of Veterans Affairs has released a list of all the loans made through the program. The list includes the names of the veterans, the amount of the loan, and the location of the property. This information is available on the department's website.

Tom Fuchs

Veterans Affairs

Fuchs, the head of the Veterans Affairs department, has been criticized for his handling of the loan program. Many veterans have complained about the difficulty of obtaining the loans and the high interest rates.

Other Highlights

A group of veterans held a protest outside the veterans affairs building today, demanding better access to the loan program. The protest was met with a police presence, but no arrests were made.

New and improved

This week, we've made some changes to our website. We've added a new section, and we've updated the design. We hope you like it!

Who To Write:

U.S. Senator

Most people know that they can write to their elected representatives about issues they care about. But did you know that you can also write to the U.S. Senator for your state? This is a great way to get your voice heard.

Prayer in school

When I was in school, we had prayer before class. But now, it's not allowed. I miss it. What do you think?

Letters to Editor

It's over for me

Dear Editor,

I was asked last Tuesday if I wanted to take a vacation for the summer. I said yes, and that's when I realized that I was done with my job.

We're excited to announce the launch of our new section on the website! We hope you like it and find it helpful.

Who To Write:

State Senator

If you have an issue with your state government, you can write to your state senator. This is a great way to get your concerns heard.

Prayer in school

I don't understand why we can't say prayers in school. It's a small town, and we're all part of the same community. We should be able to pray together.

Letters to Editor

It's time for change

Dear Editor,

We need to make some changes in the city. The schools are falling apart, and the roads are in disrepair. We need to take action.

Sharpe holds league lead

National League, Junior Division.

Sharpe, held at 1-1 by Nueces and San Patricio in a doubleheader Monday, moved into first place in the league with an 8-1 thumping of Corpus Christi Little League Tuesday. Sharpe, which is 5-2 overall, will be the top seed when the playoffs begin later this month.

For both Sharpe and Corpus Christi, the game was played for a second time due to a rainout on opening day.

Sharpe held off San Patricio 2-1 Friday night. The game was again played Saturday afternoon after being rained out last week.

Sharpe's only other loss comes against Corpus Christi, which is 2-3 overall.

Girls T-ball roundup

Orioles win

Orioles pounded out 16 hits and used 8 pitchers to win their first game of the season against the Twins, 14-2.

The Orioles started out hot on offense, scoring 8 runs in the first inning. They continued to pile on runs, scoring 6 more in the second inning and 1 in the third.

The Twins, on the other hand, struggled to score. They managed to put up 2 runs in the fourth inning, but it wasn't enough to overcome the Orioles' strong offensive performance.

The Orioles' next game is scheduled for this coming Monday against the Rangers. It will be a crucial match-up as both teams are vying for the top spot in the league.
