Apple doesn't bite
Swindler hits again

A little over a month ago, this newspaper reported that a man - or more likely two men - had attempted to defraud a local resident of a significant amount of money. The details of the attempt were not given, but it was known that the credit card numbers were involved.

Well, they're back. At least this time it was last. Last week Apple Appleg, 21st Street.

"He said he wanted me to call off my card number for him so he could "variety" me," she said. "I told him I didn't have my credit card with me and he said he'd wait for me to go and get it. He just about got me."

Apple said the man told him he had qualified for a "special division" credit card because he had been "with a government agency." He was a 30-year-old man, 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighing 150 pounds. He was wearing blue jeans, a white T-shirt and a blue sweater. He had brown hair and was clean-shaven.

Apple said she had mailed the credit card numbers to the "special division" credit card company. "I thought the way he was acting was normal," Apple said. "I told him I didn't have the card with me and he said he'd wait for me to go and get it. He just about got me."

Apple brought her phone to the police and gave them the phone number of the credit card company.

"I called the 800 number," Apple said, "but I told him again that I didn't have the card with me. He then called back and asked me to send him the phone number to his phone to arrange a new card. Then he started telling me about the benefits of the credit card and the points he could earn."

"Then I realized what was happening and told him to stop," Apple said. "But he kept on telling me about the benefits and how he could get a new card."

Apple said she then called the police and gave them the phone number of the credit card company.

"I'm just happy he didn't get away with it," Apple said. "I'm just glad I was able to stop him before he did any damage."

Hillockus weather, dry summer

This close-up of a deep-pink Hibiscus was snapped in a Panola County front yard. Some tenders of the summer-blooming shrub say discolours have been exceptionally bad all season with this year's drought. The old-fashioned name for the hardy Southern favorite is rose mallow.

Beckville foundation grants state charter

Beckville Community Development Foundation has been chartered by the state of Texas as a non-profit corporation. It has been announced by Mr. Shreve, president of the recently organized group.

The real purpose of us is to help the people of this community to get the best of economic opportunities and to sell the communities," said Shreve. "Until we acquire that attitude, we couldn't expect cash economies or any other kind."

Among foundation goals are: to acquire the office of the corporation in a proper location, a community center, and to sell the community's need for better conditions and to sell the community's need for better economic opportunities.

Kiwani auditions begin

Way things are sometimes just way things are.

On a Friday afternoon, the patience of my 13-year-old son, Zach, was worn thin. When I showed up to pick him up from school, he was already in the car, and when I asked, "What's going on?" he said, "Nothing. I just don't want to talk."

I took a deep breath and said, "Okay. I'll be here for you when you're ready to talk."

As we drove home, Zach opened up a bit. He said, "I just feel like everything is going too fast. I wish we could slow things down."

I said, "I understand how you feel. It's hard to keep up with all the changes and demands of life."

Zach nodded and said, "I wish I could go back in time and just enjoy the moments a little more."

I said, "I wish I could too. But sometimes, we just have to go with the flow and enjoy the ride as it comes."

Zach smiled and said, "Okay, I'll try."

As we approached our driveway, Zach said, "Thanks, Mom. I appreciate you being there for me."

I said, "Anytime. I'm always here for you."

The day ended with a peaceful moment between mother and son. Sometimes, all we need is a moment to just breathe and enjoy each other's company.

Sacred Harp Singing Convention held

By Mrs. Denny Woods

The 10th East Texas Sacred Harp Convention was held at Carthage, Texas, 8th to 10th, November 1969. A large number of people attended the convention, which was held at the Carthage High School. The Convention was under the direction of Judge Daniel W. Eaton, president of the Sacred Harp Singing League of Texas, and his associates.

On the opening evening, a sing, led by Mrs. Denny Woods, was held. The singing was supported with a larger audience than usual. The sing was well attended and presented a good showing of Sacred Harp singers. The singing was led by several well-known Sacred Harp singers, including Judge Eaton,
Mrs. Denny Woods, and others.

On the second and third evenings, the convention program was held. The program in-cluded a variety of Sacred Harp singing, including solo singings, duets, and quartets. The program was well-received by the audience.

The convention was a suc-cessful event, with a large number of people attending. The Sacred Harp Singing League of Texas is to be commended for their efforts in promoting this important form of music.

Summer time for reunions, dinner on grounds

STUFFED BELL PEPPERS

One pepper halved, remove seeds and membranes. Mix together:
2 eggs beaten
1 cup milk
1/2 cup crumbled cooked ham
1/2 cup cooked rice
1/2 cup crumbled cooked turkey or chicken
1/2 cup cooked beans
1/4 cup finely chopped onions
1/4 cup finely chopped celery
2 tsp dry unseasoned haystack soup

Mix well and fill pepper halves. Bake in 350° oven for 1 hour. Serve hot.

CHOCOLATE PEACH PIE

1 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 package of chocolate chips
1 can peaches
1 egg, unbeaten
1/4 tsp salt
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream together sugar, butter and chocolate chips. Add 1 egg, unbeaten, to creamed mixture and mix well. Add salt. Pour the mixture into a unbaked pie shell. Add 1 can of sliced peaches to the top of the pie. Sprinkle nuts over the top. Bake at 350° for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Serve warm. Makes 8-10 servings.

ROAST PORK IN APRICOT SAUCE

This is a delicious dish served with rice, potatoes and peas.

2 lbs boneless pork shoulder (round)
3/4 cup apricot preserves
1/2 cup dry white wine
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup brown sugar
Salt and pepper to taste

First, rinse and trim pork. In a deep skillet, combine preserves, wine, lemon juice, brown sugar, salt, and pepper. Heat to boiling, stirring. Boil slowly for 10 minutes. Place Pork shoulder in a single layer in skillet with sauce. Bake in 350° oven for 2 hours. Serve with rice, potatoes, and peas.
