City ponders legal uses of drug-related seizures

By Sandy Young Staff Writer

There is no question the city of Carthage can, under some circumstances, seize property and assets in connection with the possession of drug suspects at the time of their arrest.

And, there is also no question the city can sometimes seize vehicles, vehicles used to transport drugs, or vehicles used in the sale or distribution of drugs as part of the evidence of drug activity. The city can even, under some circumstances, seize assets of drug suspects. The city can sometimes seize these assets from their own property — in Carthage, for example, cash seized under these provisions are sometimes used in police work.

The question is: What other question is whether the city can legally seize cash tied to drug sales as part of the evidence of drug activity and repair of vehicles seized in drug arrests. If yes, while placing the "seizure" label on the vehicle, can the city keep the money tied to drug activity and repair of vehicles seized in drug arrests. If yes, while placing the "seizure" label on the vehicle, can the city keep the money tied to drug activity and repair of vehicles seized in drug arrests.

Vehicle. Seizures are based on a 1980 statute that allows the Attorney General to seize money from the sale of drugs and the disposal of funds from the sale of drugs. The statute is based on section 9911 of article 478-A of the New York City Code.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Kettle, meet Mr. Pot!

When visits to the store are tiring and sometimes boring, a good way to pass the time is by reading the local newspaper. You will find a wealth of information there, from local news to national and international events. It's a great way to stay informed and entertained.

Mrs. Apple praised

The Curious Reporter

Dear Thomas, Business Director,

I am writing to inquire about the status of my subscription to the local newspaper. I recently received my final issue, and I am concerned that it may have been lost in the mail. I would like to know if there is a way to replace it. Also, I noticed that the newspaper had a spelling error in it. Would you be able to correct it and send me a new one?

Sincerely,

Mrs. Apple

Hazing: Boyish fun or flirting with tragedy?

It seems that every few years, the issue of hazing comes back into the spotlight. Hazing is a practice that involves the initiation of new members into a group, often involving the use of psychological or physical abuse. It can be difficult to determine whether hazing is just a harmless tradition or a serious problem.

The Curious Reporter

Dear Editor,

I have been wondering about the prevalence of hazing at local universities. I have heard that it is a common practice, but I am curious to know if there are any statistics available on the number of incidents.

Sincerely,

The Curious Reporter

To enlarge water lines
Carthage to apply for grant

The City of Carthage is making plans to apply for a grant to help fund a water line expansion project in the city. The project would involve the construction of a new water line to serve the growing population of Carthage and improve the city's water infrastructure. The grant application is expected to be submitted in the coming weeks, and if successful, the funds would be used to cover a portion of the construction costs.

Good opportunities

Winter pastures need planting now

By Margaret Conley

The winter months are the perfect time to plant new pastures, allowing for a fresh start for your livestock. Winter pastures provide a nutritious and healthy food source for animals, and can help improve their overall health and well-being. Additionally, planting now will ensure that the pastures are ready for use when the colder weather sets in.

Season to open next month with 'Harvey'

Variety marks PJC theater program for year

By Dorothy Boudreaux

Lubbock, Texas (AP) — Local theater companies are gearing up for the upcoming season with a variety of productions scheduled to take the stage. One such production is "Harvey," a classic comedy written by American playwright Tony Kushner. The play, which has been adapted for the stage, is set to open next month and promises to be a hit with audiences.

The production will be directed by local theater veteran J. Michael St. John, who has directed several successful productions at the PJC theater in the past. The cast includes several talented actors who are expected to bring the characters to life.

"Harvey" is a story about a man named Elwood P. Dowd who claims to have a six-foot-tall talking cat for a pet. The play explores themes of friendship, communication, and the power of imagination.

"We're excited to bring "Harvey" to the stage," said St. John. "It's a timeless story that resonates with audiences of all ages. We're thrilled to have such a strong cast that will bring the characters to life in a way that will captivate our audience."

Careless eating forerunner of obesity, heart problems

Studies of children reveal inadequate diet

By Dorothy Harris

Let's hear it for the little kid who says: "I don't want a piece of that!"
The message is getting through. Together, nutritionists and pediatricians are recognizing the importance of eating well in the first years of life.

"People are starting to realize that the first five years of life are crucial to establishing lifelong eating habits," said Dr. Charles G. Price, director of the Child Nutrition Center at the University of Louisville.

A study at Louisiana State University found that more than 15 percent of children and adolescents between ages seven and 17 are clinically obese.

The definition of obesity varies, but generally it is considered when a person's body mass index (BMI) is 30 or higher. The BMI is calculated by dividing weight in kilograms by height in meters squared.

The study also found that children who are overweight are more likely to be overweight as adults. This is troubling because obese adults are at a higher risk for developing chronic diseases such as diabetes, heart disease, and cancer.

Mental health issues are also associated with obesity. For example, children who are obese may experience social isolation, bullying, and low self-esteem.

But there is hope. By promoting healthy eating habits early on, we can help prevent obesity and its related health problems.

One way to do this is through education. Parents, caregivers, and teachers can model healthy eating behaviors, such as choosing whole grains, fruits, and vegetables and limiting sugar and saturated fat intake.

Another strategy is to create a supportive environment. This can involve offering a variety of healthy foods and creating opportunities for physical activity.

By making small changes, we can help create a foundation for lifelong healthy eating and living habits.

Bulldog exes in key TVCC roles

Add Pelton to list of colleagues

by ted leach

Goodwin and Crayton get big TVCC spots

The TVCC football team has added a couple of new faces to its roster for the upcoming season. Goodwin Crayton, a senior, and Robert Pelton, a junior, have been named to the starting lineup for the team.

Crayton, who plays running back, has been practicing hard during the off-season and is looking forward to his senior year. "I'm really excited to be playing this year," he said. "I've been working on my running skills and I think I can really make an impact on the team this season.

Pelton, a defensive end, is also looking forward to the season. "I'm really happy to be able to play on the team," he said. "I've been working hard on my pass rush and I think I can really help the team this year.

The TVCC football team is looking strong this year and is expected to have a good season.
