MH-MR to benefit from United Way

Sheltered workshop story told

By Dorothy Hutchin
Staff Writer

On Monday, Carolyn Williams awoke from sleep and opened her eyes. She swallowed, got up off the bed and dressed in her typical attire of a nurse. She then went downstairs to prepare her breakfast. Carolyn doesn’t usually eat much at this time.

Monday was also Birth day, Carolyn Williams was 22 years old and she was dressed in her usual work attire. She had been working for a local hospital for the past three years.

Carolyn’s story is one of determination and resilience. She was born with a physical disability that affects her mobility. Despite this, she has managed to lead a successful life and has become an inspiration to others.

Carolyn is not alone. There are many others like her who are facing similar challenges. The United Way is helping to provide support and resources to individuals and families in need.

The United Way is a nonprofit organization that raises funds to support local initiatives. They focus on providing resources and programs that help people live better lives.

Carolyn’s success story is a testament to the power of determination and resilience. It is a reminder that with the right support and resources, anyone can overcome obstacles and achieve their goals.

Carolyn Williams is the perfect example of what the United Way is all about. She is a shining example of the impact that the organization can have on individuals and communities.

We should all be proud of the work that the United Way is doing. Their efforts are making a real difference in the lives of people across the country.

Carolyn’s story is a reminder that with the right support and resources, anyone can overcome obstacles and achieve their goals. The United Way is providing the support and resources that are needed to help individuals like Carolyn succeed.

We should all be grateful for the work that the United Way is doing. Their efforts are making a real difference in the lives of people across the country.

George Bush for President

Michael Dukakis was correct in the Democratic Convention in Atlanta, when he said the 1988 presidential election is not about ideology, but about competence. Today, after an evening and after a day of exciting campaigns, it is finally the competence displayed in Vice President George Bush and his running mate, Dan Quayle, that can be seen.

Though there must be a star and a little to be played about whether major issues will be an issue, there is no doubt that Bush is the best candidate to lead our country into the 1990s.

George Bush is a decorated war hero with extensive experience in both private sector and public sector. He has served in Congress, as chairman of the Republican National Committee, as ambassador to China, and director of the Central Intelligence Agency under President Reagan. During his tenure as vice president, he has served as chairman of the National Security Council, as ambassador to China, and as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Bush is a strong supporter of the Reagan administration's "peace through strength" policy and has been clear about his views on the world stage. He has been a strong advocate for U.S. military intervention in conflicts around the world, and has been a strong supporter of the U.S. military's role in protecting the country.

Bill Ratliff's vote is not for sale. He is strongly opposed to special interest trial lawyers influencing judges and state officials with large campaign contributions. Bill is also opposed to repealing consumer protection laws due to trial lawyers filing class actions lawsuits. He wants to use hard work and common sense to take our state government away from the trial lawyers and return it to the working families of Northeast Texas.

Who can win against the tax and spend boys in Austin?

"James Raney"
- United States Senator Phil Gramm

"James Raney"
- Secretary of State Jack Raines

James Raney has served as tax appraiser district director and has been first-hand how outdated our tax system is. He will work for true state tax reform and he is opposed to a state income tax, period. James will fight state mandated programs that the legislature cannot fund, period. James has proven he can win against the tax and spend boys. When he retired from the School Board the District had a surplus of $2 million.
Heat turned up as election day nears

The new Texas legislative session is about to begin. One of the most significant issues is the state's budget. The state is facing a budget shortfall of over $20 billion, and the legislature will need to find a way to balance the budget.

Hometown girl doing nicely, thank you

Linda not gobbled by Nashville meat grinder

By Phil Ward

Linda Davis, 25, has come a long way since she left her hometown of Carthage, Texas, to pursue a career in music. After making it big in Nashville, she has become known as one of the most promising new artists on the country music scene. She's been nominated for several Grammy Awards and has sold millions of copies of her albums. Despite her success, Linda remains humble and grateful for her hometown's support.

Linda and her husband, Lot Fiddler, have been married for three years. They have two young children, Jack and Eliza. The family lives in Nashville but makes frequent trips back to Texas to visit their extended family.

Linda said, "I never thought I'd be where I am today. But I've always believed in hard work and never giving up. I'm so grateful for my hometown and the support it's given me."

The family recently hosted a charity event in Carthage to raise money for a local children's hospital. The event was a huge success and raised thousands of dollars.

"We just love being back in Texas," Linda said. "It's always great to see everyone we know and support a good cause."

Linda's latest album, "Country Girl," has been a huge hit and is currently at the top of the country music charts. She's set to perform at the CMA Awards next month.

"I can't believe how far we've come," Lot said. "It's been quite a journey, but we're thankful for every step of the way."

Despite her success, Linda and Lot remain grounded and true to their Texas roots.

Linda's family said, "We're so proud of her and so thankful for her success. She's always been a hard worker and we knew she'd make it big one day."

"We just want her to keep doing what she loves and never forget where she came from," Lot said. "We love her and support her every step of the way."

Linda and Lot Fiddler's next stop on their touring schedule is Charlotte, North Carolina. They plan to release their next album in the spring.

In celebration of Linda's success, a new statue of Linda Davis will be unveiled in Carthage's downtown plaza later this month.

"It's a great opportunity for our little hometown," Linda's mother, Jana, said. "We're so proud and can't wait to see the statue."
Harris Chapel News

There's good news in Harris Chapel today. The good news is that Al Smith, the owner of Smith's Hardware, has decided to close his business and move to another location. This is a great opportunity for the community, as Smith's Hardware has been a staple in the area for many years.

We have been hearing about how Al Smith has been struggling with the high cost of doing business. We have also been hearing that he has been facing some personal issues that have been affecting his ability to run the business. We are all sorry to hear this, but we understand that sometimes these things happen.

We would like to extend our best wishes to Al Smith and his family. We hope that he is able to find a new location where he can continue to serve his customers. We also hope that he is able to find a new venture where he can continue to use his skills and talents.

We would like to thank all of Al Smith's customers for their support over the years. We hope that they will continue to support him in his new venture. We also hope that they will continue to support the businesses in the area.

We would like to thank the city officials for their support of Al Smith and his business. We hope that they will continue to support the businesses in the area.

We would like to thank the community for their support of Al Smith and his business. We hope that they will continue to support the businesses in the area.
