AUSTIN — The Texas unemployment rate rose in June, even though a government report said joblessness dipped last month, the state reported Friday.

The state's unemployment rate for June was 9.1 percent, compared with 8.9 percent the month before, the Texas Workforce Commission said.

"The unemployment rate is up slightly since May, but we have seen a trend of employment gains in the last few months," said state Labor Commissioner James Roberts. "That's a sign of recovery in the economy." The state has added jobs each month since February when jobless was 9.7 percent.

The rate increased to 9.1 percent in June from 7.8 percent in May, the state said.

The June rate compares with 9.5 percent in June of 1988 and 10.1 percent in June of 1987.

Higher rates were recorded in all the major metropolitan areas, with Harris County at 8.7 percent, El Paso at 9.8 percent and Dallas at 9.2 percent. The rate in the Panola area was 9.1 percent.

Unemployment rates were 9.1 percent in Midland, 9.9 percent in Odessa, 9.7 percent in Amarillo, 8 percent in Lubbock, 9.1 percent in Abilene, 9.1 percent in Brownsville, 9.4 percent in Corpus Christi, 9.3 percent in Harlingen, and 9.2 percent in McAllen.

Curry second in buildling at rodeo here.

DESCRIPTION: In the 50th Annual National Finals Rodeo, the top riders in the 10 major events will compete for $1 million in prize money. The event is held each year in January in Las Vegas, Nevada, and is considered the ultimate test of a rodeo rider's skills. This year's event will feature some of the best cowboys in the world, vying for the title of world champion in each event. The rodeo is a popular event that draws thousands of spectators each day, and is considered one of the highlights of the January calendar.
