Johnson anticipated decision
trashng school funding system

BY DONALD COOPER

As a Texas legislator, he called the issues Supreme Court justices to frame the questions about the state's public schools.

First Rep. Jerry K. Johnson, D- Naples, said, "I'm not satisfied with the court's ruling. Most legislators expect the court to rule in favor of the school districts."

The court's nine Republicans and no Democrats issued a unanimous ruling that the state's method of financing public education was unconstitutional.

"We said the $11 billion in the ongoing state revenue system has been declared unconstitutional, and the court's opinion is sufficient to rule the state out of school districts," said Rep. Doug Edmiston, D-State House.

The judiciary ordered the Texas Legislature to find a new way to fund public education. Public schools in Texas are funded 34 percent by property taxes and 66 percent by state and local government.

"Children who live in poor districts and children who live in rich districts must be afforded an educationally equal opportunity to have access to educational opportunities," the court's opinion states. Those children are entitled to public education and balanced school districts, says the opinion.

The court also spelled out the judge's expectations. By May 1, 1993, he will receive the school funding plan.

"We certainly don't want public education to get into the courts again."

The county commissioners will consider a contract for the seating of light-ray on the extension of Farm Road 125. The operations will also affect the Cade East Texas Regional QUESTION: Do you think TV preacher Jim Bakker should have been convicted of fraud and conspiracy?

Barbara Smith
"I don't think they ought to put him under the jail. I'm glad they convicted him."

Dazzle Hicks
"It just means that what's done in the dark will come to the light."

Wendy Gralos
"I have read all the testimonies about the first rape in the Bible. Let's be right without the first arrest. I agree with the story only if the first story was纺."

Bill D'Neal
"Jim Bakker is guilty of violating the largest trust ever placed in a man. People grant to a professional man to trust and deserve to be honestly judged."

James Gray Rogers
"I would hate to be in his shoes on Judgment Day."
