Scenes from the annual Pineburr awards assembly

One of the truest things ever written is "no man can serve two masters." When people ask me why I am running for State Representative for District 5, I tell them it's because I want to serve the people who say one thing and then do another when they are elected. I am sick and tired of special interest groups and industries dictating to our elected officials. They are putting profits over people and putting people before profits. I am running for the people and I will work hard for the working people and their families. I have been a working person and I know what it's like to work hard for a living. I believe in working for a living and I believe in working for the people. I believe in working for the workers. I believe in working for the working people.

On March 13th, elect Democrat
John Heath
State Representative / District 10

Census Bureau to offer temporary jobs

The U.S. Census Bureau is offering temporary jobs to over 100,000 people. The jobs are available in various locations across the country and will last for six months. The jobs include positions as census takers, supervisors, and data entry clerks. The Census Bureau is hiring individuals with a high school diploma or equivalent and no experience is required. The position pays $16 per hour plus benefits.

One of the most rewarding aspects of the job is the opportunity to work with a diverse group of people and contribute to a vital national effort. The Census Bureau is looking for people who are reliable, hardworking, and committed to accuracy.

If you are interested in applying for a job, you can visit the Census Bureau's website for more information and to apply online. The deadline for applications is March 31st.

This is an outdoor event and we encourage everyone to wear a red hat or tie.

The event will be held on Saturday, June 2, from 6:00 PM to 10:00 PM at the Central Texas Medical Center, 1000 Main St, Round Rock, TX 78664.
Should you own property in Joint Tenancy?

By EDWARD, EDWARD, EDWARD A. EDWARD

The choice of ownership for real estate is an important decision that can affect your financial well-being for years to come. Joint tenancy is one option that allows two or more people to own property together. Each owner has an equal interest in the property and can transfer their interest to someone else without the consent of the other owners. This can be beneficial in situations where one owner wishes to sell their share of the property. However, it's important to understand the potential implications of joint tenancy before making a decision.

Sheltering Assets

The primary reason to choose joint tenancy is to protect assets from creditors. If one of the owners is in debt or facing financial hardship, the property cannot be used to satisfy that debt. This is because joint tenancy creates an obligation that is shared equally by all owners. In the event of one owner's death, the property will pass automatically to the other owner or owners, avoiding probate proceedings.

Accidental Discovery May End Obesity

Appetite-regulating hormones that are found in the hypothalamus — the region of the brain that controls hunger and thirst — may be the key to unlocking the secrets of obesity. New research has shown that these hormones can be released by a process called "accidental discovery," which may help explain why some people are able to maintain a healthy weight while others struggle with obesity.

They chose Metabolism —（Metabolism），a team of scientists at the University of Oxford, have uncovered a new mechanism that regulates the appetite and, in turn, may be responsible for obesity. The team found that when the hypothalamus is exposed to certain signals, it can activate a process that leads to the release of these hormones. This process, known as "metabolic sensing," is thought to be triggered by the body's response to changes in the environment, such as changes in temperature or changes in the availability of food.

Genealogical company seeks Davis heirs

A genealogical company is searching for the descendants of Davis family members, who were prominent in the history of the United States. The company is interested in tracking down any living relatives of the Davis family, and they are offering a reward for information leading to the discovery of these relatives. The Davis family was involved in a number of significant events in American history, including the American Civil War and the Civil Rights movement.
