Livestock entries reap rewards

By BRIAN MCGREGOR
The 43rd annual J. Livestock Show and Sale was held on March 13, in Calliope, with a total of $67,650 paid for the animals by the buyers. The Livestock Show and Sale at the J. Livestock Steer Show is the grandest and most successful of all livestock shows in the county. The show was held on Friday at 8 a.m., and the judging did not begin until 10 a.m. The steers were judged on the 13th at 8 a.m., and the buyers paid for the animals as follows:

- 1st place: $2,700
- 2nd place: $2,000
- 3rd place: $1,500
- 4th place: $1,000

The grand champion steer was sold for $9,000 to the farmer from the county, with the second place steer selling for $7,000 to the farmer from the county, and the third place steer selling for $6,000 to the farmer from the county. The buyers also paid for the animals on a 20% second and third place basis.

May 5 elections bring low filings

Several names were on the ballot for the May 5 elections in Fairbanks

Pancake County livestock Grand Champion Steer was named following a vote where visitors voted with Neil McHugh, vice-president of R. Lape, Inc., who bought the animal.

Coulter reported in good condition

Four-year-old Kenneth Coulter, who was raised by his father, has been reported safe in good condition at Good Shepherd Medical Center in Longview.

"He has been with us for the last three days, and he has been in good condition," said the child's mother, Robert Coulter. "He has been in good shape, and he is doing well now. We're planning to take him to the hospital this week." The child was last seen yesterday for the first time since the initial search for him began. It was his mother, Sharon Coulter, who called in to report him missing.

First State Bank plans 12,000 sq. ft. expansion

 Wilhelm Rapp, chairman of the board of First State Bank, said the expansion will provide additional office space, including a new bank branch, and will also allow the bank to accommodate future growth. The expansion will be completed by fall 2013, and will add approximately 10,000 square feet of office space. The bank currently has 2,000 square feet of office space in its current building.

Rapp pointed out that the bank is a community institution that is committed to providing banking services to the local community. He said that the bank has been a staple of the community for many years, and is committed to providing high-quality services to its customers. The expansion will allow the bank to better serve its customers and provide the necessary space for future growth.

The architect for the project is the local firm of Architects Rapp, and the project will be managed by construction manager McHugh. The bank will be closed during construction, and the new offices will be open to the public on a regular basis.

Harriss takes 'Best of Show' at Beckville Elementary history fair

The annual Beckville Elementary history fair was held on March 14. The students were divided into groups of 4-6 students per group, with one group per grade level. The students researched two topics of their choice and presented them to a panel of judges. Some students researched the history of their school, while others researched local historical events. The fair was held in the school's auditorium, and the students were judged on their presentation skills, research, and overall knowledge of their topic. The fair was a great opportunity for the students to learn about their school's history and the history of their community.
