Run-off elections under way

Voting in yesterday's special election was marred as it was not. At 3:30 p.m. polling judges at Pontiac's Mason Community Center and Pontiac High School, which served as polling places, reported that they had received no ballots.

Elections officials and voting hours were extended as ballots were not available. After 8 p.m., when ballots were received, a second round of voting was held.

The election was held to fill vacancies in the Pontiac School Board and the Pontiac City Council. The results will be announced tomorrow.

State Capital Highlights

Leavocares opened the new year with all of its usual formality and with some new frills. The building is now more accessible to the public, with larger and more comfortable rooms for meetings. The governor's office has been moved to a more central location, and there is now a separate visitors' center. The legislative sessions are being held more frequently, and the budget has been increased to support these changes. The state is also making efforts to improve its infrastructure, with new highways and bridges being constructed. The governor's address to the legislature was well-received, and it is hoped that the state will continue to make progress in the coming year.

Family Channel original film

By Beverly Grace

The Family Channel continues to fulfill its promise to produce original animated series and movies for kids aged 2 and older. The network recently premiered its latest family-friendly film, "The Three Little Pigs: A New Twist." The film, which features a modern twist on the classic fairy tale, is set to be a hit with audiences of all ages.

The film follows the adventures of three young pigs, played by three siblings, as they set out to build their dream houses. As they face challenges along the way, the pigs learn valuable lessons about teamwork, perseverance, and the importance of following their dreams.

The film has a running time of 90 minutes and is rated G, making it suitable for kids and adults alike. It is available to stream on the Family Channel website and on-demand platforms.
