Taxes

A new law in the State of Texas changes the way real estate taxes are levied. This change will have significant impact on the real estate market in Panola County. Bill Barnes, owner of the local real estate firm, Barnes & Son, said that the new law will affect the way that properties in the county are valued. The new law also mandates that all properties be revalued every five years. This will ensure that the property values are up-to-date and accurate. Barnes said that this will be a significant change for the real estate market in Panola County.
