First Things First
By Talia Boggus

We have just learned that the old East and west are divided by a line that runs through the Panola College Student Senate building. For the last few years, this line has been a source of conflict between the two groups. We decided to do something about it and we decided to organize a meeting.

We have had enough mudbaths in Texas politics

To the editor of the Austin American Statesman, as a reader of the Austin American Statesman, I would like to comment on the recent debate between two candidates for a political office in Texas.

As a reader of the Austin American Statesman, I have noticed that the political landscape in Texas has become increasingly negative and divisive. The mudbath of political attacks and personal attacks has become too common and has become a hallmark of our political discourse.

It is my belief that politics should be about more than personal attacks and mudbaths. Politics should be about representing the interests of the people, introducing new ideas, and working towards a better future for all Texans.

I urge both candidates to focus on their policies and ideas, rather than engaging in personal attacks. It is only through open and honest dialogue that we can find solutions to the challenges facing our state.

Sincerely,

Declining drug usage good news

Today, more and more teenagers are taking steps to avoid drugs and alcohol. The American Medical Association recently released a report showing a decrease in drug use among teenagers. This is a positive trend that we should all be celebrating.

The report indicates that the use of ecstasy, LSD, and marijuana has decreased significantly. This is a testament to the efforts of parents, educators, and communities in preventing drug use among teenagers.

We should continue to support initiatives that promote drug-free environments and educate young people about the risks of drug use. It is in our best interest to ensure that our youth do not become addicted to drugs.

Sincerely,

Texas go all out to attract industries

Texas is making a concerted effort to attract businesses and industries. The state has launched a series of initiatives to create a business-friendly environment. These efforts are aimed at increasing job opportunities and improving the economy.

Texas is known for its low taxes, competitive business climate, and skilled workforce. These factors make it an attractive location for businesses looking to expand or relocate.

We should continue to support policies that promote economic growth and job creation. It is in our interest to have a strong economy that benefits all Texans.

Sincerely,

Democrat candidates launch campaign offensives

The Democratic Party is launching a series of campaign offensives to increase their chances of victory in upcoming elections. The party is focusing on key issues such as healthcare, education, and the environment.

Democratic candidates are running on a platform that emphasizes the need for progress and change. They are committed to creating a more equitable and just society.

We should continue to support candidates who represent the interests of the people. It is in our interest to have a strong and vibrant democracy.

Sincerely,

Reducing self employment taxes

The state of Texas is taking steps to reduce self-employment taxes. This is a positive move that will benefit small businesses and entrepreneurs.

Self-employment taxes are a significant burden on small businesses. By reducing these taxes, the state is making it easier for small businesses to thrive.

We should continue to support policies that promote entrepreneurship and small business growth. It is in our interest to have a strong and vibrant small business community.

Sincerely,

Economic conditions improving

The state of Texas is experiencing an improvement in economic conditions. This is a positive trend that will benefit all Texans.

The unemployment rate has decreased, and the job market is improving. This is a testament to the efforts of the state and local governments in creating a business-friendly environment.

We should continue to support policies that promote economic growth and job creation. It is in our interest to have a strong and vibrant economy.

Sincerely,
