National park holds 1200 memorials

Vicksburg houses numerous historical sights and scenic beauty

The Panola Watchman

Vicksburg houses numerous historical sights and scenic beauty. The city, located on the banks of the Mississippi River, is rich in history and offers a variety of attractions for visitors. Among the most notable are the Vicksburg National Military Park, which houses the largest collection of Civil War memorials in the United States, and the historic homes and museums that showcase the city's past.

The Vicksburg National Military Park is a National Park Service unit that preserves the site of the Vicksburg Campaign, a major engagement in the American Civil War. The park includes more than 300 acres of battlefields, museums, and historic sites, including the Civil War Visitors Center, the Vicksburg National Military Park Museum, and the Vicksburg National Cemetery.

Vicksburg's historic homes and museums include the McAlpin House Museum, which features exhibits on the city's history and culture, and the Blakely House, a restored Victorian home that now serves as a museum dedicated to the history of the American Civil War.

In addition to its historical attractions, Vicksburg offers stunning natural beauty. The Mississippi River rolls gracefully through the city, providing opportunities for boating, fishing, and water sports. The city also has a variety of parks and trails, including the Vicksburg National Military Park's pedestrian path and the riverfront parks, which offer scenic views and opportunities for outdoor activities.

Vicksburg is a great destination for history enthusiasts and nature lovers alike. Whether you are interested in learning about the city's past or enjoying its natural beauty, Vicksburg has something to offer everyone.
Planning a company's growth

By Duane E. Magen and Gregory Feith
Businesses need a strategic plan to guide them through the new century. A strategic plan involves more than just aiming for the highest growth rate. It calls for a clear understanding of the company's mission and goals. A strategic plan must be specific, realistic, and measurable. It should also consider the resources available and the competitive environment.
