Keating Five is a horror movie

Recently, 16 junior high school stelt students for an anti-corruption awareness program at a high school in the United States. During the program, they were informed about the infamous case of the Keating Five, where five senators were accused of corruption.

The students were shown a video on the Keating Five, which detailed how the senators were involved in a scandal that took place in the 1980s. The senators were accused of accepting bribes to influence their vote on a bailout package for the savings and loan industry. The video also showed how the scandal led to the resignation of one of the senators.

The students were shocked by the extent of the corruption and the impact it had on the country. They were also educated on the importance of holding elected officials accountable for their actions.

The program ended with a discussion led by the school's ethics teacher. The students were encouraged to ask questions and share their thoughts on the topic. The teacher emphasized the importance of being informed and educated on these types of issues.

The students left the program with a newfound appreciation for the importance of government transparency and accountability. They were reminded that corruption can have serious consequences and that it is important to remain vigilant in the protection of our democratic institutions.

Dedicated JVs had grand season

By Mid Lachen

The shining star of the Carthage Basketball Season was the junior varsity team. A team that was not expected to be in the playoffs, but within one week of the season, found themselves as one of the best teams in the area.

Team Manager, Mr. H. Lachen, said, "It was a great season for our team. We started off slow, but gained momentum as the season progressed." Coach Davis said, "The team worked hard and we are proud of them." The team finished the season with a record of 14-6 and their reputation as a tough opponent.

The Carthage High School basketball team is facing Marshall this week. The team has been working hard to improve and is hoping to win this game. Despite some missing players, the team is determined to do its best.

Correction

The previous article about the basketball team was incorrect. Marshall High School is actually Carthage's rival in basketball, not the other way around.
