Let's hope LCUD is dead in water

Caddo too precious to tamper with

For the last 50 years, the Lamar County Unit Development Corporation has been the driving force behind the growth of towns in the county. Now, it appears that the corporation is on the verge of collapse.

"This is a very difficult time for the LCUD," said Assistant Director Charles McClain. "The corporation has been struggling for several years, and now it looks like it may be headed for bankruptcy."

McClain said that the corporation has been unable to keep up with the demands of the growing county, and that it is in financial trouble. "We've tried to do everything we can to keep the corporation afloat," he said. "But it just isn't working anymore."

The corporation was established in the 1960s to help promote economic development in the county. It has provided loans and grants to businesses and organizations, and it has helped to attract new industries to the area.

"The LCUD has been a huge success," said McClain. "But it's time for a change. We need to find a new model for economic development in the county."

The Sheriff's Report

Mary Jo Elliott

The most recent report of the Lamar County Sheriff's Office included the following:

- A man was arrested for burglary.
- A woman was arrested for assault.
- A car was stolen.
- A fire was reported in a rural area.

The Sheriff's Office is working to locate the person responsible for the theft and determine the cause of the fire.

Swinnea and Brady united in marriage

Sister Bradie of Seattle and Carl Hasumi, a dentist, were united in marriage in a ceremony held at the Presbyterian Church in Swinnea. The young couple was married by Reverend H. W. Robinson. The bride was seen in a gown designed by Carol J. Wright, and the flowers were a gift from the bridegroom.

Whether it's a new home, a new car, or a new job, there's a lot to think about when you're building something new. That's one reason why many people choose to use a new home insurance policy. A new home insurance policy can provide coverage for your home and its contents in case of damage or theft. You can also choose to add additional coverage, such as a new home mortgage insurance policy, to protect yourself against the financial risk of owning a new home.

Card of thanks

Gerry and Bobbi Salter participated in Children's Book Week, and their son, Mark, was one of the many children who received a copy of the book "The Cat in the Hat." Thank you for your generosity and support of this important event. Your continued support is greatly appreciated.

First Things First

BY TILA ROGERS

In order to make a positive impact on the children's literacy, we must start early. Reading to children at a young age can foster a love for reading and a better understanding of the world around them. As parents and caregivers, it is important to encourage reading as a daily activity. This includes reading aloud to children and providing them with access to books. By doing so, we are setting them up for a successful future in life.

Can Chiropractic Help Me?

How Much Will It Cost?

We are often asked, "What's the best way of finding out whether or not a doctor of chiropractic can help my problem?" We believe the answer can be found in a complete chiropractic consultation and examination, including x-rays. To help you find out if your specific injury cause is under our care, we will do a complete chiropractic consultation and examination, including x-rays (procedures that normally cost $74.00-$128.00) for only $25.00!

We will make this special offer available for the next 3 weeks. The only exceptions are the extra personal injury cause (mother's compensation and auto accidents) in which there is no charge directly to the patient.
