Bates gives Carthage clean bill of fiscal health

City approves new audit

City will now pay two auditors to conduct a financial audit of the city on a regular basis. The move comes as the city looks to improve its financial management and provide assurance to its citizens. The audit will be conducted annually and will evaluate the city's financial statements, internal controls, and compliance with laws and regulations. The city council has approved the use of outside auditors to conduct the audit, and has budgeted $100,000 for the purpose.

Thursday is tax deadline for many Panola County entities

Taxpayers in Panola County have until today to file their tax returns. Entities that must file returns include the county, its departments, and the city of Carthage. Failure to file on time can result in penalties.

Lawyer says civic ads legal

City of Carthage

A lawyer argues that the city's use of public service announcements on non-commercial radio stations is legal. The lawyer notes that the city has a legal right to use public service announcements to promote civic engagement and improve the community. The city's use of such announcements is a form of government speech, which is protected by the First Amendment.

CISD students bond with Middle East pen pals

As the last few weeks before the Jan. 16 deadline slipped by, a few U.S. students took time to write to their pen pals in the Middle East. The students wrote letters, shared photos, and exchanged stories about their lives. Many of the letters were filled with excitement and joy, as the students looked forward to the upcoming holiday season.

Letters from Saudi diet filter home

The letters were written in English and Arabic and were sent to the pen pals in the Middle East. The letters included stories about the students' lives, photos of their families and friends, and motivational messages. The students hoped that their letters would bring joy and inspiration to their pen pals, who may be far away from home.

Con artists scam local victim

Corinne Polanski, a saliva test victim, was recently scammed by a con artist who offered her a chance to win a large sum of money. The scam involved a call from a person claiming to be from a well-known children's charity. The person offered to help the victim win the money in exchange for a small fee. The victim paid the fee and was later contacted by someone claiming to have won the money. The victim then paid a second fee to claim the prize, only to be scammed again. The victim has lost a total of $3,000 and is now seeking help from the community to recover the money.

Merrion Homes (left) of the world famous Mergansers allows Linda Grissom a few minutes during a game played at Johnson Gym at Panola College Monday night. As part of the Mergansers celebration of the team's 25th anniversary, Carthage was visited by one of the old teams for the team to gain some excitement. This group of Mergansers were coached by Coach Bob Beach "Chop" and played under the guidance of Coach Bob Beach, who had to use the midnight oil to get some perspective on the game of basketball.

Congressman says allies must show resolve

Chapman backs American troops

Chapman, who is a veteran of the Iraq War, has expressed support for the United Nations' resolution to authorize force in Iraq. Chapman said that the United Nations' role in authorizing force is critical to ensure that the United States is not acting alone. Chapman added that it is important to work with our allies to ensure that we have the support of the international community.

Responding to a press conference, Chapman said: "I have been very clear about my support for the United Nations' resolution to authorize force in Iraq. Chapman said that the United Nations' role is critical to ensure that the United States is not acting alone. Chapman added that it is important to work with our allies to ensure that we have the support of the international community.

After consultations with fellow Texas Republicans in the House of Representatives, I had clear support of the United States' Resolution to authorize force in Iraq. Chapman added that it is important to work with our allies to ensure that we have the support of the international community.

"While I have not heard from a particular resolution, I believe it is important to work with our allies to ensure that we have the support of the international community. Chapman added that it is important to work with our allies to ensure that we have the support of the international community.

The Middle East is facing unprecedented challenges, including political instability and economic difficulties. Chapman said that it is important to work with our allies to ensure that we have the support of the international community.

East Texas not singing economic blues

Despite the state of economic conditions here in East Texas, the residents are not singing the blues. Many are optimistic about the future and believe that the region will continue to grow and prosper. The local economy is diverse, with industries such as oil and gas, agriculture, and tourism providing stable employment opportunities for residents.

The chemical industry in particular is booming, with new plants opening and expansions being announced. This has led to an increase in demand for skilled labor, which is helping to boost the local job market.

Locals are also hopeful about the prospects for the oil and gas industry, which remains a major part of the economy. Despite the global downturn in oil prices, many believe that the region will continue to be a major player in the industry.

"We're not singing the blues," said one resident. "We're just doing our best to adapt to the changing times. It's not easy, but we're making progress."

Patriotism sweeps country
A few years ago, this would have been a sentence in a newspaper article about a political event or a national holiday. However, with the current events in the world, most people are more concerned with the threats of war and terrorism, and would be more likely to hear such a sentence in a report about international affairs.

Mall regulations result of war
Sending a message to arrive at a mall can be challenging. The mall itself is a large and complex place, with many stores and departments, and it can be difficult to find what you're looking for. Because of this, many malls have regulations in place to help guide visitors. These regulations can depend on the specific mall, and may include things like rules about smoking, eating, and carrying personal items.
