Residents rally to post signatures before deadline

The residents of the county, who are concerned about the nursing home, have started a petition to force the nursing home to vote on the petition. The petition is being gathered at the courthouse and the county judge is the one who will make the final decision on the petition.

Residents have started a petition to force the nursing home to accept the petition. The petition is being gathered at the courthouse and the county judge is the one who will make the final decision on the petition.

The nursing home has been ordered to accept the petition, but the nursing home is not willing to accept the petition. The nursing home is saying that the petition has not been delivered and is not willing to accept the petition.

The nursing home is still debating whether to accept the petition or not. The county judge is scheduled to make the final decision on the petition.

Airport runway completion essential

Shawnee County Commission has allocated $150,000 for the construction of a new runway at Shawnee County Airport. The commission approved the allocation at its meeting last week. The new runway will provide additional access to the airport and improve its ability to accommodate larger aircraft.

Capital halls buzzing with income tax talk

Lawmakers in the Kansas legislature are debating the merits of a proposed income tax increase. Some members argue that the state needs additional revenue to fund important programs, while others argue that the tax increase would disproportionately affect lower-income families.

Committee continues meetings

The Shawnee County Commission continues to hold regular meetings to discuss various issues facing the county. The next meeting is scheduled for March 25.

Rebate checks healthy

Jamestown rebate checks are healthy. The checks from the county next month will be huge.

The city of Jamestown is set to pay out $2.5 million in rebates to Jamestown residents this year. The orders are in, and checks should start to go out by the end of May.

The rebates are part of the city’s ongoing “go green” initiative, which aims to reduce the city’s carbon footprint and encourage residents to conserve energy.

"We’re thrilled to be able to send out this much money to our residents," said Mayor John Haggerty. "This is a great way for us to show our appreciation for their efforts to conserve energy and make our city a better place to live."

Elephants hotel big top Friday at Cattlemans’ Arena

Kelly Miller circus comes to county

Have you ever dreamed of seeing an elephant up close? Well, now’s your chance! The Kelly Miller circus is coming to town, and it promises to be an unforgettable experience.

The circus will be setting up its big top on Friday at the Cattlemans’ Arena, and it’s sure to be a sight to behold. From the majestic Asian elephants to the colorful circus performers, there’s something for everyone.

"The Kelly Miller circus is one of the best in the country," said circus owner Jim Miller. "We’re excited to bring our show to Jamestown and share some of the joy and wonder that comes with the circus."
