Strength For Living
BY JERRY ELIZABETH

"Strength" is a word that appears in the dictionary, but it is often misunderstood. Our bodies need strength, but how do we get it? A common misconception is that strength is just about being physically strong. This is not entirely accurate. True strength is about being mentally strong, physically strong, and emotionally strong.

BY JERRY ELIZABETH

The first thing you need to do is exercise. This can be in the form of weightlifting, running, or yoga. It is important to find something that you enjoy and that you can do regularly. Exercise is good for your body, but it is also good for your mind. It helps to clear your mind and gives you a sense of achievement.

Secondly, you need to eat well. A healthy diet is necessary for strength. You need to eat a variety of foods that are rich in nutrients. This will help your body to function properly.

Lastly, you need to get enough sleep. Your body needs time to rest and recover. Without enough sleep, you will not be able to perform at your best.

In conclusion, strength is about balance. You need to find a balance between exercise, diet, and sleep. By doing this, you will be able to build true strength.
