Representative speaks in Beckville

Johnson praises America

"You and I are privileged people. A nation of the free to whom freedom is not a word but a way of life. To see your countrymen and other nations all over the world want to come here and be free and I think it's a great opportunity to do so."

In his speech, Johnson emphasized the importance of freedom and the responsibility of Americans to protect it. He also mentioned the achievements of the Independent Publishing project and the potential for Beckville to be a leader in this endeavor.

During his visit, Johnson delivered a keynote speech at the Independent Publishing event. The event was attended by local officials, business leaders, and community members.

Pride and patriotism

Beckville Mayor Don Young and other Beckville residents expressed their pride in the event and the potential for Beckville to become a leader in independent publishing.

The event was also attended by representatives from various organizations, including the local chamber of commerce, local schools, and other community groups.

Hudson praises hospital staff for hard work

PGH passes accreditation easily

Panola County Hospital has received full accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations as a result of a six-year survey of the hospital's operations.

The hospital passed all 60 elements of the survey, which were evaluated by a team of experts from the Joint Commission.

"I am very proud of our staff and the dedication they have shown to our patients," said Hudson.

The hospital's accreditation is a significant achievement, as it demonstrates the hospital's commitment to providing high-quality care to its patients.

Eclipse glasses offered to newspaper subscribers

It has never been a good time to look directly at the sun. And yet, when you purchase a copy of the newspaper, you are given a chance to do just that. Each week, the newspaper offers a pair of eclipse glasses to those who purchase a copy. The glasses are designed to protect your eyes from the harmful ultraviolet rays of the sun.

"We want to make sure our readers are safe when viewing the eclipse," said the editor of the newspaper.

The glasses are made from high-quality materials and are designed to block 100% of the harmful rays of the sun.

"They are important for protecting your eyes," said the editor.

Carthage woman recovering well

Bishop returns home from Florida hospital

Recovery is almost complete for a Carthage woman who nearly lost her eye in a recent surgery. Jennifer Cox, 34, said she suffered a severe burn to her eye after an accident at her home.

"I was cooking dinner when I heard a noise," she said. "I turned around and saw smoke. I ran outside and saw my eye was on fire."

Cox was rushed to a hospital in Carthage, where doctors performed an emergency surgery to save her eye.

"It was a harrowing experience," she said. "I was afraid I would lose my eye."

Cox's eye was saved, but she still has vision problems and is recovering at home.

Columns, advertising take first

Panola Newspapers wins four TPA awards

Panola Newspapers took home four awards from the Texas Press Association's 1995 Newspaper Contest. The awards include first place for advertising, columns, and editorial writing.

"We are thrilled to receive these awards," said the editor of the newspaper. "These awards are a testament to the hard work and dedication of our staff."
