Armory saddled with debt

When it was announced two weeks ago that the National Guard would close the Panola County Armory, located on Caddo Park Road, many people were shocked and angry. The Armory had been a fixture in the community for many years, and its closure was seen as a blow to the local economy.

The Armory was a hub for many community events and was a source of pride for the county. It was used not only for military purposes, but also for community gatherings, meetings, and other events.

The selection process was competitive, with many candidates vying for the limited number of spots available. The delegates were selected based on their commitment to the Democratic Party and their ability to represent the views of their fellow party members.

County splits over secretary

By a 3-2 split vote, the Panola County Commissioners decided to fire Secretary Doris Thomas. The vote came after the commissioners failed to agree on a successor for the position.

Thomas has been the county's top administrative assistant since 2014. She has been criticized for her handling of various tasks, including record-keeping and communication with the public.

Blood drive slated

All blood types are needed to replenish depleted supplies in the area. The event will be held on May 15 at the Panola County Fairgrounds.

The need for blood is especially critical during the summer months when fewer donors come forward.

Senioritis is a real problem in high schools across the state, and many students struggle with motivation and focus during the final few weeks of the school year.

Local community clubs ready for 'Trash-Off'

Another volunteer clean-up is planned for Saturday, April 29. The focus will be on cleaning up the historic downtown area of Carthage.

The event is organized by the Carthage Chamber of Commerce and is open to all residents.

Parents of children participating in the program state that their children have a "sense of accomplishment" and feel a sense of pride in their work.

For a child, summertime is synonymous with fun — swimming, reading, playing games, or just spending time outside. However, during the summer months, children can also experience learning loss, known as the "summer slide.

According to the National Summer Learning Association, children can lose up to 2.5 months of learning during the summer months. This loss can be especially significant for children from low-income families.

Summer camps are a popular solution to prevent the "summer slide," offering children an opportunity to continue learning and socializing during the summer months.

The United States and Georgia have been hit with severe drought conditions, leading to water shortages in many areas.

The drought has had a significant impact on agriculture, with many farmers struggling to grow crops and meet the needs of their communities.

The drought has also affected the local water supply, with some areas running low on water.
