Banquet honors producers

James and Dorothy Wedgeworth of the Clayton County were named the 1993 Georgia Department of Agriculture Producer Producer Sunday at a banquet held at the Ponderosa restaurant in宛州.

The event was preceded by a reception in the afternoon on the Farmhouse lawn, across from the Clayton County restaurant.

Jerry D. Harris, a member and director of the Banquet Committee, and the event's chairman, welcomed the guests. He presented the seventh annual of the Chamber of Commerce's Ponderosa Steak and Chicken dinner.

Harris added that the event helped bring together all the producers of the state to celebrate and enjoy the food.

Ponderosa County members who were honored were local ASCB executive director Jerry D. Harris.

One African American producer was honored.

Banquet honors producers

Equity has been a popular catchphrase in agriculture for many years. Usually, the word is used in conjunction with the relative amount of equity that has plagued Texas schools for the last three sessions of the legislature.

However, equity may play on a larger scale in education. If Texas is to be a leader in the national pool of educational research, it will be because of the state's emphasis on equity.

Equity has been a major concern in the education system for many years. It is defined as the fair distribution of educational resources, including financial resources, to all students.

In an era of budget constraints, equity becomes even more critical. If Texas is to be a leader in the national pool of educational research, it will be because of the state's emphasis on equity.

Higher education a good Texas deal

Texas Governor Ann Richards has been speaking out publicly in support of the bill. The bill, which would provide a $250 tax credit for each year a Texan attends college, is expected to have a hearing in the Senate on Monday. Richards has praised the bill as a way to make higher education more accessible to Texans, and has urged lawmakers to support it.

No words express gratitude

If you've ever had the misfortune of losing a loved one, you know how difficult it can be to express your feelings of gratitude. I recently lost a family member, and I wanted to write a letter to express my appreciation for all the support I received during that difficult time. I hope this letter will serve as a reminder to others of the importance of showing gratitude.

Panola College tuition low

The tuition for Panola College is currently at its lowest level in recent memory. This is thanks to the efforts of the college administration, who have been able to keep costs down while still providing a high-quality education. This is great news for students and their families, as it makes higher education more accessible and affordable for everyone.

Area deaths

Several deaths have occurred recently in the area. One person died in a car accident, another in a fall, and still another from a heart attack. Our thoughts go out to the families of these individuals during this difficult time.

Calendar of events

There are several events coming up in the area. The Panola College Fine Arts Department will be holding a series of concerts, and the local library is hosting a reading club. Be sure to check out these events and support our community's cultural offerings.

"With Angels like the Rehab staff, I saw Miracles happen!"

Edwina Melder, about the Willis-Knighton Rehab Staff

Edwina Melder of Shreveport was the victim of a stroke that left her with a minor injury for the people she loves. She, in her own words, "literally danced until she came to Willis-Knighton Rehabilitation Institute."

"I'm a very good friend of the staff," she says. "They've been there for me every step of the way."

The worst day was when she had to leave again. "That's when she had to go back to rehab," she says. "I think they saved my life."

Showing local concern for each other

The decision to study human behavior with the goal of helping people live better lives is the profession of psychology. The 1992 Panola County Fair will feature a series of programs designed to help people understand their own and other people's behavior. The fair, which runs from June 13 through June 17, will include a series of workshops and seminars on topics such as stress management, communication skills, and relationships. The fair is open to the public, and admission is free.
