City to consider $1.8 million bid
Massive street repair project to begin soon

By CHARLES NOLLER

Wednesday's Beckville City Council meeting featured the second public hearing on the possibility of accepting a $1.8 million bid for a massive street repair project.

The city council has been requesting new federal funding, but has yet to receive any response.

The project would include the replacement of all the roads in the city, including the main streets and smaller ones.

The council also discussed the possibility of applying for a grant through the Federal Highway Administration.

The grant would cover up to 80% of the cost of the project.

If the grant is approved, the project is expected to begin in the fall.

Beckville to construct new facility

By JAMIE McKEE

The Beckville City Council met Monday evening to discuss a proposed new facility for the city.

The facility would be used for storage and maintenance purposes.

The council approved the purchase of a new building for the facility.

The building is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Ratlliff assails redistricting Senate fate in air again

By LAURA MACHO

Democrat Ratlliff is running for Senate District 11, which includes

Watchdog groups release report

School taxes examined

In Carthage, the average school tax rate is $4.50 per thousand dollars of assessed value, the highest in the region.

The report also examined the current school tax rates in Carthage.

It found that the Carthage Independent School District has the highest school tax rate in the region, followed by the Carthage School District.

The report recommended that the Carthage Independent School District lower their school tax rate in order to make it more affordable for the community.

The report also suggested that the Carthage School District consider alternative sources of funding, such as state grants or private donations.

The report was commissioned by the Carthage Community Foundation and was conducted by a team of economists from the University of Texas at Austin.
