Local street repair plan draws fire

As expected, Carthage Commissioners approved a $50,000 street repair plan during a special meeting on Monday for a repair project to commence in early September.

But it was not a sit-down without controversy.

Before the story was handed down for the evening meeting, they read a letter from a resident of Carthage expressing concern about the proposed project. The resident claimed that the road was in need of repair, but the proposed project was too extensive.

"My house is on Texas Street and I need a new driveway," the resident wrote. "I am concerned that the proposed project will be too expensive for the improvement needed."

The officials said they would consider the resident's concerns and make adjustments to the project if necessary.

On the other hand, the City Manager expressed confidence in the project and called it a much-needed improvement.

"We have conducted a thorough analysis of the road," the City Manager said. "The proposed project will address all the necessary repairs and improve the safety of the area."

The residents were required to vote on the project during the evening meeting. The vote resulted in a 4-1 approval, with one resident opposing the plan.

County okays ramp

Both Panso and Itasca county commissioners approved the construction of the long-awaited street ramp on U.S. 9, between Carthage and Palestine, during their regular meetings.

The two meetings that built the ramp are scheduled for November and December. Locally, the area was 4-1, with Commissioner Richard Hall voting no on both, while Commissioner Berry, who is responsible for the commission's construction, voted yes on both.

"The additional funds are needed to complete the project," the City Manager said. "We are confident that the additional funds will be available to complete the project."
Arrest report

The incident occurred on Monday, July 18. According to the report, Officer Smith was conducting a traffic stop on South Main Street when he observed a vehicle driving recklessly. Officer Smith pulled over the vehicle and approached the driver, who appeared to be under the influence of drugs.

The driver, a 25-year-old male, was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of drugs. The driver was taken into custody and later released on bond. The case is currently under investigation.

Parents play big part in Cub Scout Day Camp success

The last day finds the boys of the Orange Coast Area Council's Cub Scout Day Camp packing their bags and ridding their bikes. The camp, held at the Coast Plateau Camp in Corona, was held for over 500 boys from Orange Coast area Cub Scout Units. During the week, the boys learned many new things and made new friends.

The boys enjoyed swimming, boating, archery, and other activities during the week. They also had many opportunities to learn about their local area, including a trip to the Orange County Fairgrounds.

Several families from the Orange Coast area helped out during the week, including Dr. and Mrs. John Coburn, who provided transportation for the boys. The camp was a great success and the boys had a lot of fun.

‘Citizen Cohn’ portrays American monster

Public life and private passion collide, setting the stage for the trials of men who felt the weight of history on their shoulders and stood up to the expectations of the public. The story of J.D. Cohn, a man who shaped a modern world, and the lives of others who shared his vision, is vividly portrayed in this compelling tale.

Will Grand Old Party make dull TV viewing?

Audiences may not be thrilled by the predictable format of the Grand Old Party convention. However, the convention is an opportunity for the party to showcase its values and ideas to the American public. By focusing on issues that matter to the party and its supporters, the convention can make for some compelling television watching.

When you see these signs think SAFETY!
Hudson serves as PGH administrator

Gary Hudson began serving Panola General Hospital as administrator on October 28.

Before coming to Carthage, the Texas Tech graduate served as associate administrator for Tishomingo Regional Hospital in Atoka, Okla.

At Tishomingo, he was in charge of planning and developing the hospital's facilities.

"It was quite a change," Hudson said. "But I'm finding it very interesting to be in charge of an expanding project."

Hudson came to PGH in a very busy time. The hospital is embarking on an expansion and remodeling project that has been under way since May 1, 1980.

"A lot of things are going on," Hudson said. "It's a challenge."

The hospital's growth is evident as the construction work continues.

A new wing is being added to the hospital, with additional facilities for patients and staff. The project is expected to be completed in late 1981.

Hudson's role is to oversee the construction and ensure that the hospital's goals are met.

"I'm doing what I can to make sure everything runs smoothly," Hudson said. "It's a big project, but we're on track."
Hospital auxiliary formed in 1950

The Panama General Hospital Auxiliary was formed in 1950, shortly after the new hospital was constructed. Officers were elected, bylaws were drawn up and the membership fee was set at $5. The original name of the Auxiliary was the "Women's Auxiliary of The Panama General Hospital.

In 1955, the by-laws were revised and the membership fee raised to $10. At that time, the officer was chosen by the entire membership rather than elected. The membership was opened to both men and women. Many of the duties and points listed in the by-laws were passed on to the hospital administration in 1957, although voting rules help to decide which activities are carried out.

In the Fall, Auxiliary members will meet on the first Thursday of each month at the hospital, and will work on plans for the upcoming year.
