County approves new budget

By CHARLES McCULLOCH

About a dozen citizens attended the public hearing Monday night before the Panel County Commissioners Court to discuss and approve the new budget.

Some concerned citizens opposed spending with the increased budget, although the newly approved budget will add to the county’s $500,000 debt for 1993-94.

"They received a six percent tax increase, it is too big in my opinion," said one resident who attended the budget hearing at the courthouse Monday night.

They presented to the budget, and measured the budget, in the courthouse Monday night.

"I would not have the budget cut at all, but I would like to see some changes made in the budget to ensure that it is the most efficient use of funds that we have."

One person who attended the hearing said that the budget was an improvement over previous years, but that it still needed improvements.

"The budget is a little bit more equitable than in previous years. However, I think it is still a bit too high," said this person.

"I think the budget is a little bit too high for the county. I would like to see some changes made in the budget to ensure that it is the most efficient use of funds that we have."

Rheumatic Fever is the major cause of death and disability in childhood and adolescence worldwide. The disease affects children and teenagers of all ages, from infants to young adults. In fact, it is estimated that there are over 5 million children and adolescents worldwide who are affected by rheumatic fever, and it is the leading cause of heart disease in children in most developing countries.

The disease is caused by Streptococcus pyogenes, an organism that can be found in the throat or skin of healthy people. If someone is infected with a strep infection, the body's immune system may respond in a way that leads to rheumatic fever. The disease can cause damage to the heart, joints, and other parts of the body.

One of the most common symptoms of rheumatic fever is inflammation of the heart valves, which can lead to heart failure and other complications. Other symptoms may include joint pain, swelling, fever, and fatigue.

There is no cure for rheumatic fever, but it can be managed with antibiotics and other treatments. Early diagnosis and treatment are crucial to preventing complications and disabilities.

With the widespread use of antibiotics, rheumatic fever has largely been eradicated in developed countries. However, it remains a significant health problem in many developing countries, where access to healthcare is limited.

The best way to prevent rheumatic fever is to prevent strep throat infections. This can be done by practicing good hygiene, such as washing hands regularly and covering the mouth and nose when coughing or sneezing. Antiviral medications and vaccines are also used to prevent and treat strep throat infections.

In conclusion, rheumatic fever is a serious disease that can cause long-term damage to the heart and other organs. Early diagnosis and treatment are essential to prevent complications. By practicing good hygiene and using antibiotics when needed, we can help prevent this disease and protect the health of children and adolescents globally.

Eastland prepares for life to Franciscan friar

By ELENA COBB

In 1968, the Franciscan Friars established a retirement community in Eastland, Texas. The community provides a serene environment for retired friars, allowing them to live out their lives in peace and quiet. The community is situated on a beautiful hilltop, surrounded by lush greenery and a view of the surrounding countryside. The Friar's retreat is a haven for those who have dedicated their lives to serving others. The community offers a range of activities and services for the retired friars, including daily Mass, prayer services, and social events.

As a Franciscan friar, one is called to serve others. The friar's life is dedicated to caring for the sick, the poor, and the elderly. The friars provide a range of services, including health care, education, and spiritual guidance. The community is open to all who seek to serve others, regardless of their background or beliefs. The friars believe that by serving others, they are fulfilling their calling as Franciscans.

The Friar's retreat is a place of peace and reflection. The friars spend their days in prayer and meditation, seeking guidance from God. They are committed to living in a simple and modest way, focusing on the spiritual aspects of their lives. The community is a place of love and compassion, where friars come together to support each other in their spiritual journeys.

Farmers’ market sales successful
Farmers County Farmers’ Market managers say it’s a good sign for the future of the market, as it continues to attract more vendors and customers. The market, located on the square in Dublin, has been a success so far this year, as vendors report increased sales and customer interest.

“Our goal is to provide a space where farmers and vendors can sell their goods, while also promoting local products,” said Market Manager Samantha Jones. “We’ve seen a lot of positive feedback from both vendors and customers this season.”

Jones said the market has seen a steady increase in vendor participation, with more farmers and producers choosing to sell their goods in Dublin. The market also attracts a diverse range of vendors, from local farmers to artisans and food vendors.

“We’ve had everything from fresh produce to baked goods, and even handmade crafts,” said Jones. “Our vendors are excited to be part of the market and appreciate the support they’ve received from the community.”

Jones added that the market is a great way for farmers to connect with customers and promote their products. “It’s a valuable opportunity for farmers to sell directly to the public, and we’re proud to support the local agricultural community.”

The Farmers County Farmers’ Market is open every Saturday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the square in Dublin.
