Legislature mulls school amendment

Meeting in special session in Austin, Texas, Legislators are ex- pected to pass the bill to reunite an increasingly divided House. Legislators are currently meeting in a special session to place the current school taxing sys- tem, which was adopted unan- imously by the Texas Supreme Court.

The bills to reunite the House has passed a 30-year-old bill that was originally drafted in 1991 by then-Democratic State Senator John Shadrack, who has restored pride, the bill is a redraft of the bill that the House once passed. In the original bill, the bill was passed to resettle the public schools system. The public schools system was a proposed constitutional amendment that would allow the people to legally "organize" and separate the public schools and the school district in the state. The bill was proposed by the legislature in 1991 and was not enacted by the time of its death. It was to be held for a special session for the first time in 1992, but was not passed. Since then, the bill has been revived several times, most recently in 1994 and 1996. The bill was finally passed by the legislature in 1997 and was enacted into law.

Veterans celebrate at memorial

The last time the Caregiver showed its support for the Independence Brigade, when rebate checks for the four months that ended in July, 1999, were canceled. Now, rebate checks for the first four months that ended in January, 1999, have been released.

The drop in sales is expected to continue as long as the local economy remains weak. The discount on sales later this year is expected to fall further, to $1,000 million, or about 20% of the 1997 level.

Those who served in the war have given their family a sense of belonging, those who are taking steps to organize the veterans of the war have been remembered and honored in the annual service at the Panola County Courthouse.

The annual observance, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #620 and American Legion Post #41 and 433, was scheduled for 11 a.m. on Friday of the war observed on the one hundredth anniversary, but poor weather foiled the gathering in this district of the war.

Both White and White, a veteran of World War II, who is the head of the group's local chapter, said it was a positive sight for him to see the crowd gathered there.

FAITH REMINDS US ABOUT HOLIDAY GIFTS FOR THE POOR

The holidays are looming up on the horizon, and among your plans for festivities and gift buying should be some thoughts about those less fortunate than you. There are many organizations that assemble holiday gift baskets for the poor; possibly including your own House of Worship. If you can, you should give a donation or contribute some canned goods. Also, someone could use the clothing items in good condition that you’re not wearing and are just taking up space in your closet. Moreover, if you have the time and the facilities, you might consider helping with the distribution of these things. Knowing that you have done what you can to help someone else will give you a warm feeling that will make your own holidays seem a lot brighter.

"He that giveth unto the poor shall not lack.”
-Proverbs 22:9

Rank 17th is state pre-season by AAAA Outlook

Dawgs highly touted for basketball

By TED LEONARD

Carthage, Texas — Carthage Basketball, which is ranked among the top teams in the state according to the most recent AAAs outlook, is dealing with a different type of talent this season. The Carthage Bombers have had a number of successful seasons in recent years, but the current squad is particularly strong, as evidenced by recent games. The Bombers have been led by senior guard David Green, who has been consistently scoring 20 points per game. Last week, Green scored 30 points in a thrilling come-from-behind victory over a talented team from Carthage. The Bombers' coach, Scott Johnson, said, "David has been a star for us this season. He's been scoring and playing defense, and he's really stepping up for the team." The Bombers have also been relying on the strong play of their other seniors, including Michael Davis and Alex Blanc, who have been providing valuable contributions on both ends of the court. The Bombers are currently in a tight race for the state championship, and fans are excited to see how the season will play out. The Bombers’ next game is against the local rival, Carthage, in the quarterfinals. The Bombers are looking to continue their winning streak and secure a spot in the state tournament. Fans are encouraged to support their team and come out to watch the game. The Bombers' momentum, talent, and hard work will be key to their success in the upcoming games. Fans are looking forward to witnessing the Bombers’ continued success in the upcoming months.
Carthage oil and gas

Panhandle Exploration of Shamrock has won locations for a new, 3,000-ft. development well in the Carthage Field. The well will be located at T- 10 State Line, 9.80 and 1.4 miles from the Arch Oil Field. The first well is a 597-ft. well in the Chalmers Group at 5.5 miles from the above-mentioned location. The second well is a 633-ft. well in the Callaway Group at 3.5 miles from the Arch Oil Field. The second well is a 633-ft. well in the Callaway Group at 3.5 miles from the Arch Oil Field.

The Panhandle Exploration Company is conducting a seismic survey in the vicinity of the Arch Oil Field. The survey is being conducted with the cooperation of the Texas Railroad Commission. The survey is expected to be completed by the end of this month.

The Carthage Field has been producing oil and gas since the early 1930s. The field is located in the Panhandle, Texas, and is known for its high-quality crude oil. The field has been a major contributor to the economic development of the region.

Panhandle Exploration of Shamrock, a subsidiary of Shamrock Oil and Gas Corporation, is a leading oil and gas company in the Permian Basin. The company has a diverse portfolio of assets in the Permian Basin, including producing, developing, and exploration assets.
