Hutchinson victorious in race for Senate seat

Key Bailey Hutchison captured Party's nomination for the lawman's seat in the U.S. Senate Saturday.

Hutchison, the 48-year-old Dallas lawyer and former state D.A., defeated U.S. Senate incumbent Bob Packwood, 54-year-old Republican from west Texas, to win the Senate race in the state's primary election Saturday.

Hutchison now faces former Democratic Gov. Ann Richards in the Nov. 8 general election, with the winner going to the Senate for the two-year term.

The victory was a major blow to Packwood, who had been expected to win the Senate seat for the next two years.

Hutchison, who was born in Dallas and raised in the area, is a native Texan.

She graduated from the University of Texas law school in 1975 and later served as Dallas County district attorney from 1976 to 1978.

In 1982, she was elected to the Dallas County Commissioners Court, and in 1988, she was elected to the state Senate.

She has been married to her husband, Bill, since 1978, and they have three children.

Hutchison is known for her strong positions on various issues, including education, healthcare, and the environment.

She has also been involved in several community service organizations, including the Texas Women's Law Center and the Dallas Bar Association.

Hutchison's victory in the primary election is a significant moment in Texas history, and she is expected to face a challenging general election campaign against Packwood.

The general election will take place on November 8, and the winner will serve the two-year term in the U.S. Senate.

Hutchison's campaign has emphasized her experience in state politics and her willingness to fight for the interests of Texas residents.

Packwood, on the other hand, has been a long-time member of the Senate, and his campaign has focused on his experience and his commitment to the state of Texas.

The race is likely to be one of the most closely watched in the country, and the outcome will have significant implications for the future of the Senate.

Hutchison's victory is a testament to the power of grassroots organizing and the importance of engaging with voters on the issues that matter most to them.

The election results are a reminder that Texas is a state with a rich history of political change, and that we must continue to support candidates who are committed to serving the people of Texas.

Locals pled guilty to DWI, receive sentences

Three Pamela Crain sons were arrested normally at 1 A.M. on May 3 for being in the parking lot of the Pam- pula Independent School District. David, 16, of Pampa, and Scott, 14, of Pampa, were charged with a second offense in the same incident, while Patrick, 15, of Pampa, was charged with a first offense. The three were all members of the local high school's track team and were suspended from school for the remainder of the season.

As part of their plea bargain, all three pleaded guilty to the charges and were sentenced to community service and probation. Patrick, who had been suspended for the remainder of the season, was sentenced to 60 days in jail and 6 months of probation. David and Scott were both sentenced to 90 days in jail and 1 year of probation.

The three pleaded guilty to reckless driving and were sentenced to 60 days in jail and 1 year of probation. They will also be required to complete community service and attend drunk driver awareness classes.

Theory can beat Dow

By Tom Goodwin, C.P.

Don't worry, the Dow Jones Industrial Average won't stop getting stronger! With the economy on the upswing, the market is expected to continue its upward trend. In fact, many analysts believe that the Dow will reach new heights in the near future.

But don't get too excited just yet. The market can be a fickle beast, and there's always the possibility of a downturn. So be sure to keep an eye on the economy and stay informed about the latest news.

School finance plan judged unfair for school districts

The state's new school finance plan is considered unfair by some school districts. The plan, which is designed to provide funding for schools based on need, is being criticized for not being fair to all districts.

Some districts, especially those in rural areas, are concerned that the plan will not provide adequate funding for their schools. They argue that the plan does not take into account the unique needs of their schools and communities.

However, others believe that the plan is fair and will help to level the playing field for all schools. They argue that the plan will provide schools with the resources they need to provide a quality education for all students.

KILLING A BUSINESS IN TEN EASY STEPS

1. DON'T ADVERTISE! Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.

2. DON'T ADVERTISE! Tell yourself you just don't have time to spend thinking about promoting your business.

3. DON'T ADVERTISE! Just assume everybody knows who you are.

4. DON'T ADVERTISE! Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.

5. DON'T ADVERTISE! Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded and urged to do so.

6. DON'T ADVERTISE! Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.

7. DON'T ADVERTISE! Tell yourself that it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.

8. DON'T ADVERTISE! Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling - not an expense.

9. DON'T ADVERTISE! Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.

10. DON'T ADVERTISE! Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.
