Gladewater’s Silly Symphony: A decade of enthusiasm

By RODRIGUEZ

Most folks would never admit to having heard of the Gladewater Silly Symphony. But for those who have, it is an endearing tradition.

Imagine a group of people, each with a unique instrument, gathered in a room, each playing a tune. The result is a symphony of noise, but it is a symphony that brings joy to those who hear it.

The Silly Symphony has been going strong for a decade. Though originally conceived as a lark, it has grown in popularity, drawing sold-out crowds to its performances.

The group, led by the inimitable Jim Rodriguez, is made up of residents of Gladewater and nearby areas. Each member brings their own sense of humor and musical talent to the mix.

The performances are usually held on the second Sunday of every month, rain or shine. And though the music may not be traditional, the enthusiasm is always high.

This year, the group will celebrate its 10th anniversary with a special event. The theme will be “Silly Symphony Through the Ages.”

Nursing home resident remembers life with Ringling Bros. Circus

By BARBARA HENRY

Dorothy Thomas, a resident of the nursing home here, has fond memories of the Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus.

Dorothy grew up in the 1920s and 1930s, a time when the circus was a beloved part of American culture. She remembers her parents taking her and her siblings to see the show.

The circus would come to town and set up its tent, attracting children and families from all over. Dorothy recalls the excitement of the big top and the acrobats on stilts.

She remembers the clowns, the elephants, and the horsemen. The circus was not just a show, but an experience.

In recent years, the circus has struggled. But for Dorothy, it will always be a special part of her childhood.

STEP program offers employment for senior citizens

By GLENDIS LEE

In 1973, the Texas Legislature created the creation of the first comprehensive "workfare" employment program in the nation. The Texas Employee Program (STEP), administered by the Texas Commission for the Elderly. The Development Commission, a non-profit organization, was formed to operate the program with funds provided through the Texas Commission.

The Texas Commission has been a leading advocate of STEP from the beginning and continues to support it. The organization is committed to the principles of theSTEP program, that is, non-profit community service activities that are truly volunteer activities.

The Texas Commission is currently working on ways to increase the number of volunteers. STEP is a project of community service. It is a way of providing services to the community by people who are not paid for their work. The program is designed to provide employment opportunities for people who are unable to work because of physical or mental disabilities.

STEP currently has a pool of over 1,000 volunteers, and the number continues to grow.
