College surveys public

Parsons College plans for the future depend in part on the response to a new survey. The survey asks business, professional, and public service workers what vocational programs they would like to see offered. The college is also asking potential employers what training they feel is needed by new hires.

The survey is part of the college's efforts to develop a long-range plan for the growth of its programs. The college has been in the business of education for many years, and the results of the survey will help shape its future direction.

The survey is being conducted by the college's administration and will be available online. The college will provide incentives for responding to the survey, including free admission to college events and a chance to win a scholarship.

This month, the college is also launching a new program designed to attract more students from out of state. The program includes a new online course and a mentorship program for incoming students.

The college is also seeking input from the local community on its future plans. A public meeting is scheduled for next month to discuss the survey results and future plans.

City requests signal for busy intersection

State to consider traffic light

If Carthage City Commissioners decide to add another traffic signal at the busy intersection of South Main Street and West Third Avenue, it could be the first step towards improving safety in the area.

The intersection has been identified as a safety concern by local officials, and a traffic study has determined that a traffic signal is needed to reduce the number of accidents.

City officials are currently working with the Missouri Department of Transportation to determine the feasibility of adding a traffic signal. If the project is approved, it could take several months to complete.

3-1 Rabbits, 4-0 Dogs vie in non-district

Dog frosh face test in Atlanta Thursday

ATLANTA - It took an all-out effort of the best athletes from both teams to keep the score within reason, but the overall result was a 21-13 win for the Rabbits. The game was marked by a series of exciting plays that kept the crowd on the edge of their seats.

The Rabbits scored early, with a touchdown catch by John Smith in the first quarter. The Dogs, however, fought back with a field goal by Michael Miller late in the period. The score was 7-3 at halftime.

In the second half, the Rabbits took control with a series of methodical drives. Quarterback Tim Brown connected with receiver Mark Johnson for a 12-yard touchdown early in the third quarter. The Dogs tried to respond, but their quarterback, Tom Green, was intercepted by linebacker Rick Taylor.

The Rabbits added a field goal late in the game, securing the victory. Head coach Bob Johnson praised his team's performance, saying, "We had great balance on offense and a strong defense." He also congratulated the Dogs on their efforts, calling them "a formidable opponent."
