Libraries renew NETLS membership

Acreditation brings support from state government.

The Samson Library, the TCU Library, the Texas Library System for 1993, the local library system supported by the Panola County Library System, which has been a member of the North East Texas Library System since 1993, according to D. T. Thomas, librarian, and head of the Panola County Library System, has renewed its membership in the state library system.

Libraries are administered by the system after they meet certain criteria such as hours of service, professional staffing requirements, number of books held, and local funding support. The library's goal is to make sure that the local library system is providing the best possible service to the community.

Membership in the NETLS system means that local libraries can share books and video tapes. Libraries also work together to meet local needs, and receive funding from the state to provide necessary services.

The library currently holds approximately 6,000 volumes, including a wide variety of fiction, non-fiction, and reference materials. The library also maintains a collection of periodicals and provides internet access.

In the past, the library has offered special programs for children and children's families, such as story time for children of all ages. These programs are designed to encourage reading and learning.

Books and video tapes can also be borrowed through the NETLS system to provide wider access to materials. Video tapes may be checked out, returned, and renewed as many times as possible.

The library is open Monday through Friday from 9am to 5pm, and Saturday from 9am to noon. The library is closed on Sundays.

The library also hosts a variety of events throughout the year, such as book sales and workshops, and is always looking for volunteers to help with these activities.

The library is located at 100 S. Main St., and is open to the public.

Santa's waiting to hear from you

Dear children,

Merry Christmas. But don't that make you think of that free day of your life? What a great day! No school, no work, no chores, no appointments. You can do whatever you want, as long as you don't get caught.

We are closed on Christmas Day, but will be open on New Year's Day. Happy holidays, and have a great winter break!

Christmas parade celebrates 125 years

Bethlehem Baptist Church celebrates 125th birthday.

The church was the center of the community in the early 1900s, providing education, entertainment, and spiritual guidance for the local population. During this time, the church was known for its warm and welcoming atmosphere, attracting people from all walks of life.

Despite facing challenges, the church continued to grow and thrive. Today, it remains a pillar of the community, offering a place of refuge and support for those in need.

The church celebrates its 125th birthday on November 28th with a parade and other events. Join the celebration and help the church continue its legacy of love and service.
Natural trees traditional favorite

The best of all tree care is unobstructed sunlight. In a sunny location, Christmas trees as well as other evergreen trees and deciduous trees benefit from a sunny environment. It's important to keep trees away from the sun for the entire growing season to ensure optimal growth. Avoid placing trees in direct sunlight for long periods of time, as this can lead to overheating and stress. Additionally, it's crucial to water trees regularly to maintain healthy growth. A common mistake is overwatering or underwatering, which can lead to water stress and affect the tree's health. Watering trees adequately helps to ensure proper nutrition and overall well-being for the tree. Overall, providing the right conditions for your trees is essential for their growth and longevity. Regular maintenance, including pruning and fertilization, can further enhance the health and beauty of your trees. However, it's important to note that each species may have specific care requirements that should be consulted before planting. In conclusion, taking care of your trees involves a combination of proper sunlight exposure, water management, and regular maintenance. By following these guidelines, you can help ensure the long-term health and beauty of your trees in your landscape. Happy tree care to all! — By Jerry Brown

Hunters turn to healing deer

Allisons enjoy twin hobbies helping wounded animals

By SHERRY MANGWICH

In the spring of 1993, Dale Allison had a decision to make. He decided that he couldn't afford to put his deer hunting activities at risk. The two hunters that were shot dead last week may be the last time he goes hunting. Allison, 62, and his wife, 65, were both shot on the same day.

Allison had been hunting deer for over 30 years and was an expert at it. He and his wife used to spend their weekends out in the woods, tracking down deer and taking them back to their cabin. But last week, they were attacked by a group of armed men.

The attackers were after the Allisons because they had been taking too many deer from the area. The couple had been hunting illegally, and the authorities were after them.

Allison was shot in the chest and died on the scene. His wife was shot in the leg and was able to make her way back to the cabin. She was taken to the hospital and is expected to recover.

The Allisons had been living in the woods for over 10 years. They were a well-respected couple in the community and were loved by all.

"We're heartbroken," said a neighbor. "They were such good people. We'll miss them greatly."

The Allisons' hunting activities had been the topic of many discussions in the community. They had been known for their skill and their respect for the animals they killed.

The authorities are still investigating the incident. It is unknown if the Allisons were targeted because of their hunting activities or for some other reason.

In the meantime, the community is mourning the loss of two great people. The Allisons will be missed by all who knew them.

Cub Corner

Pee Wee program

Of all the events that the Cub program has to offer, none are as popular as the Pee Wee program. The program is a great way for little boys and girls to learn about Cub scouting and to meet new friends.

The program is open to boys and girls who are between the ages of 7 and 11. The program is free and is offered at the local Cub troop.

The program includes a variety of activities such as hiking, camping, and learning about nature. It is a great way for kids to get some exercise and to learn about the outdoors.

The program is also a great way for kids to learn about Cub scouting. They will learn about the basic principles of Cub scouting, such as helping others, being loyal, and being honest.

The program is offered during the fall and the spring. It is open to all boys and girls in the area.

To learn more about the Cub program and the Pee Wee program, contact your local Cub troop.

Teague completes training at San Diego Marine depot

Teague, a 17-year-old Marine, recently completed a Marine Corps boot camp in San Diego. The boot camp is a rigorous training program that teaches recruits the basic principles of the Marine Corps.

Teague was one of 1,000 recruits who were selected for the boot camp. He was chosen because of his athletic ability and his commitment to the Marine Corps.

The boot camp is a 10-week program that includes basic training and advanced training. The recruits are taught how to hike, how to jump, and how to swim.

The recruits are also taught how to use the basic Marine Corps weapons. They are taught how to shoot the M16 rifle and the M4 carbine.

Teague is now a private in the Marine Corps. He will be assigned to a unit in the United States.
