Nursing program funding examined

Panola College's new nursing program is an essential step in the college's mission to provide quality education and prepare students for successful careers in healthcare. The program requires a significant investment in facilities, equipment, and faculty, and it is crucial that the college receive the necessary funding to support this initiative. The college has been working diligently to secure the required funding, and we are hopeful that our efforts will prove successful.

illegal activities on the campus, which have been a growing concern for some time now. The college has taken steps to address these issues, including increasing security measures and implementing stricter policies. However, there is still work to be done to ensure a safe and healthy learning environment for all students.

Holder promotes Watchman publisher

A new publisher has been named for the Watchman newspaper. Bill Holder, a former employee of the newspaper, has been appointed to the position. Holder brings several years of experience in the newspaper industry, including roles as business manager and advertising manager. He has a strong background in customer service and a passion for journalism.

Panola College speech students qualify for nationwide championship

Panola College students have been selected to participate in the national championship speech competition. This is a significant achievement for the college and its students, who have worked hard to prepare for this opportunity. The students will represent the college on the national stage, and we are proud to support them in their efforts.

Christmas coming

Baker-Kroney's Sixth Grade Choir, under the direction of Rhonda Smith, put on a holiday show for school children at the Christian Center on November 27. The show featured a variety of Christmas classics and亮点 performance by the choir, which brought joy and holiday spirit to all who attended.

Brady Bill raises questions

By LAURA NEFF

A controversial bill, known as Brady II, has been introduced in the Georgia General Assembly. The bill is designed to restrict the sale of firearms to individuals who have a history of mental illness or who are deemed to be a danger to themselves or others.

"The bill is a reasonable way to ensure that people with a history of mental illness are not able to purchase firearms," said Representative John Brady, sponsor of the bill. "It is important to strike a balance between protecting our citizens and respecting the rights of gun owners, but I believe this bill strikes the right balance.

However, critics of the bill argue that it is a violation of civil liberties and that it is unlikely to effectively prevent gun violence. They also argue that it could be used as a tool for political gain, as it may appeal to certain constituencies.

"This bill is a political ploy designed to appeal to the gun control lobby," said Representative Jane Smith. "It is not a solution to the problem of gun violence, and it should not be passed into law.

The debate over the Brady II bill continues, with both sides presenting their arguments and seeking to influence public opinion. It remains to be seen how this bill will be received by the General Assembly and the citizens of Georgia.

Panola hires computer systems analysts

Panola College has hired two new computer systems analysts to work in the college's Information Technology department. The new hires were selected through a competitive process and will play a vital role in the college's ongoing efforts to modernize its technology infrastructure.

"We are excited to have these two talented professionals join our team," said Dr. John Smith, Vice President of Information Technology. "They will be instrumental in helping us to improve the technology experience for our students and employees."

Hutchison re-indicted on ethics charges

Whitmore denies conflict

Whitmore's defense is that he made no difference in his dealings with any of the parties involved, and that the transactions were all legal and proper.

Whitmore's attorney, Edward Jones, said his client is confident of his innocence.

"We believe that Mr. Whitmore did nothing wrong," Jones said. "We believe that he will be exonerated."

Jones said that the indictment is "a political attempt to silence Mr. Whitmore."

Whitmore has been a member of the House of Representatives for 20 years and has been a strong advocate for the rights of minorities.

"Mr. Whitmore has always been a champion for the underdog," Jones said. "He has always stood up for what is right, and I believe that he will be found not guilty."

The trial is expected to begin in early January.

MIKE BLANKENSHIP, MD.
NOMINATED

"QUALITY OF LIFE" AWARD

To whom it may concern:

I would like to take the opportunity to nominate Dr. Michael Blankenship for the 1993 "Quality of Life" Award. My reason for this nomination is my personal attempt to recognize a physician who has almost single-handedly defined "care" in a large and under-served area of rural America.

I have personally witnessed Dr. Mike Blankenship sacrifice his time as well as forfeit thousands of dollars in out-of-pocket expenses on behalf of countless indigent patients. Dr. Blankenship has gone an extra mile which has never previously occurred in this marketplace of Northeast Texas and much of Southeast Arkansas and Southern Oklahoma.

Then, the quality of care for hundreds of individuals have been improved through the direct result of Dr. Blankenship, and the thousands who have similarly benefited from Dr. Blankenship's introduction of competition into the providing of our specialty care in this area. The end result has been that available care for hemodialysis, peritoneal dialysis, and transplant patients in this geographic site of rural America has improved dramatically.

For these reasons, I hereby nominate Dr. Mike Blankenship for the 1993 "Quality of Life" Award. With this recognition, perhaps we in the health care industry can reframe to the public that there are really more physicians out in our system who back their care with charity and respect.

Sincerely,

Robert J. Babin
President, TMHDC
