BISD prescribes 3R's

Public hearing scheduled

By LAWRENCE MEGGINSON

"We know when we're headed into the mud, but we haven't gotten dirty in a while," said Histock School principal Bob Paulus. He said the district is moving quickly, but much of the bond work is behind schedule. The district has approved a January 8, 2016, meeting date for the public hearing on the bond issue. The district's 3R's (Repair, Replace, Reduce) program is designed to conserve energy and improve the educational environment.

The program is in its early stages but would include the installation of new windows, insulation, and other improvements to reduce energy consumption. The district is planning to operate the public hearing twice, on January 8 and 15, at the食品 Hills High School gymnasium.

Carbon monoxide threatens family

A Flavwood Community family recently escaped a deadly Monday night when they discovered carbon monoxide poisoning in their home. The family were in the process of preparing dinner when they smelled a gas-like odor in the kitchen. When they opened the oven door, they saw a gas leak. They called 911 immediately. The family, including the mother, father, and two children, were quickly transported to the hospital. Both the mother and father were taken to the intensive care unit, while the children were treated in the emergency room.

The family was unresponsive and had difficulty breathing. The gas had been leaking from a gas pipe that was not properly connected. The family was lucky to escape with their lives.

Bank robbers left after road loss

By SUBMITTED

A Nebraska teacher's decision to walk down the street with a bag of cash to pay for the teacher's Christmas tree instead of using a bus to transport the cash led to a change in the bank robbery scenario.

The teacher, who was on her way to purchase a Christmas tree, decided to walk down the street with the cash instead of using the bus. She was successful in avoiding the robbery, and the robbers left the scene.

Drug funds found in tank

A unique hidden cookie jar was found Wednesday night with a large cache of marijuana. The jar, found in a kitchen, contained over 500 grams of marijuana. The jar was filled with a special cookie recipe that was made with marijuana-infused butter. The jar was set on a shelf in the kitchen and was a common sight in the home.

STRENGTH FOR LIVING

BY Denny Shuman

For the past three years, I've worked through the challenges of living with a chronic disease. I've learned that strength comes from within, and it takes courage to face each day with a positive attitude.

I've had to make many adjustments to my life, but I've also discovered new strengths I didn't know I had. I've learned to appreciate the small things in life, like a sunny day or a kind word from a friend.

I've been inspired by the resilience of others who've faced similar challenges. Their stories have helped me to be more accepting of my own limitations and to see the big picture.

I've also found strength in my family and friends. Their support has been invaluable, and I'm grateful for their love and understanding.

I know that there will be days when it's hard to keep going, but I've learned that I can find strength in the moments when I least expect it. I look forward to continuing on this journey of self-discovery and growth.

History of Beckville school recounts education beginning

Know Your Heritage

by Mrs. Lou B. Lowman

Afolded schoolhouse, which is now the Girling home, stood at the corner of Main and South Turnpike roads in Beckvil-le, Texas. The school was established in 1886 and was in use till 1935. It was the first public school in the area and served students from the surrounding community.

The school was originally founded by Frances Girling, who had previously taught in Beckville. She purchased the property and donated it to the community for use as a school.

The schoolhouse was of concrete and brick construction and had three rooms. It was replaced in the 1930s by a larger and more modern building.

The school played an important role in the community, providing education to many people who went on to achieve success in a variety of fields.

The Girling family, who lived near the school, was active in the community and helped maintain the school.

The school was closed in 1935 due to declining enrollment and the need for a more modern facility.

The history of this school provides a glimpse into the past and the important role that education has played in the development of the Beckville community.

Franklin's Good Advice Was America's Gift To The World

Benjamin Franklin, where birthday will occur in a few days, is usually thought of as the first American statesman being the colonial days. However, his accomplishments and practical advice reached far beyond his time. He was a diplomat, author, philosopher and publisher, who, as a member of the well-known Pennsylvania Society, brought peace to France and an end to Richard's Atlantic. He gave a fine to the Thirteen colonies, thereby thwarting the potential for further rebellion.

Here's why nothing else, Franklin should be remembered for his common sense advice on life. He was a strong advocate of thrift, temperance, not waiting too long, and buying something expensive as a way to avoid debt. Your judge will tell you that men with the principles of Benjamin Franklin would be having to answer with the good sense to live by his advice.
