Swatte tanged in new dispute
Floydada hospital threatened by controversy

By LAURA NEHIG
Dr. Fred Swatte, who has become a household name in Floydada as the city's new physician, was quoted in a recent interview as saying that the hospital was in financial trouble. Swatte explained that the hospital had been struggling to meet its financial obligations due to a decline in patient volume. He added that the hospital was in need of additional funding to ensure its continued operation.

The hospital, which was established in the 1950s, has been a vital part of the community for decades. However, the recent downturn in patient numbers has put it in a precarious position. Swatte said that the hospital was currently operating at a loss and was in need of additional support to stay afloat.

Our story is over, but the war is not over.

It's been a long and difficult year for the men of our family who have been away at war. We've been through so much, but we're finally home. It's been a tough road, but we've come through. Now we can start rebuilding our lives and family. We're thankful to be back. We won't take it for granted.

Guilty pleas entered in DWI, drug cases

Terry Embree, Chickasha, pleaded guilty on Monday to charges of driving under the influence affecting safety and possession of marijuana. Both charges are Class D offenses. Embree was ordered to pay a $200 fine for each charge and was placed on two years’ probation. The judge, however, suspended the second probationary offense, so Embree will be on one year of probation. If Embree has a good report on his probation, he will be permitted to have his driving record cleared. Other conditions of the probation are that Embree complete 50 hours of community service and attend a DWI program as directed by the judge.
