In audit at PC
Familiar problems crop up

By LAURA NERCHE

The 200-page report released last week for the Florida Board of Regents shows that the PC accounting system is riddled with familiar problems that have plagued the college for years. The audit, conducted by the Florida Board of Regents, revealed that the college's financial management system is inadequate and that the college's financial practices are not in compliance with state and federal regulations.

A familiar pattern

The report, which covers the fiscal years 1989-1990 and 1990-1991, highlights several areas where the college has failed to comply with regulations. These include:

1. Inadequate accounting procedures: The college's accounting system is not adequate to ensure accurate and complete records.
2. Inaccurate financial reporting: The college's financial reports are not accurate and complete.
3. Ineffective internal controls: The college's internal controls are not effective in preventing fraud and errors.
4. Lack of segregation of duties: The college's segregation of duties is not effective in preventing fraud.
5. Inadequate budgeting: The college's budgeting processes are not adequate to ensure that the college is meeting its financial goals.

The report recommends that the college implement changes to address these issues. The college's response is pending.

Panola plans tuition hike

The cost of attending Panola College will go up this fall due to a tuition hike announced by the board of trustees. The new tuition rates, effective August 1, will increase by 10 percent for in-state students and 15 percent for out-of-state students.

The increase is necessary to cover the cost of operating the college and to maintain its financial stability. The board of trustees has been working to increase revenue and reduce expenses to offset the costs associated with the tuition hike.

The college's tuition increase is in line with those at other community colleges in the state. The average tuition increase for community colleges in Georgia is 10 percent.

What Equals an Ice Storm?

We want you to know that the very beginning of the winter is the time when it is easiest to stay away from the snow. We put all the tools and equipment that we have to the task of clearing the streets and keeping the roads open. At one point during the outbreak, 11,000 Panola-Harrison customers in east Texas and northwest Louisiana were without power.

Thank you.

When death occurs at a distance, away from where advance funeral plans were made, it takes an expert to see that all arrangements come together.

We live in a society that is increasingly mobile. Which increases the possibility of death occurring away from home. This can add to confusion. Especially when arrangements have been thoughtfully made in advance and need to be carried out.

When you have made advance arrangements, whether for yourself or your loved ones, it is important to take the necessary steps to ensure that the arrangements are carried out as intended.
