Jail overcrowding means early release

As many prison systems continue to deal with the increasing number of prisoners waiting for jail space, overcrowding has become a problem in a portion of the state's prison system. DePristo explained, "We are currently overcrowding with prisoners and need to go to a place of confinement." DePristo added that not all prisoners can be housed in the same facility.

DePristo explained that the Lackawanna County Jail is currently overcrowding and has a current inmate population of 250. This number is over the facility's capacity of 200 inmates.

DePristo stated that the jail is currently operating at 125% of its capacity. This is a significant increase from the previous year when the jail was at 85% of its capacity.

According to DePristo, the jail population has increased significantly due to increased crime rates and increased inmate transfers from other facilities. DePristo added that the jail is currently operating on a daily average of 250 inmates.

In order to alleviate overcrowding, the jail has implemented several measures, including the construction of a new wing to increase bed space and the implementation of a new inmate classification system to better allocate inmates.

The jail is currently operating at 125% of its capacity, which is significantly higher than the 85% capacity limit. The jail is currently operating on a daily average of 250 inmates, which is significantly higher than the 200 inmates that the facility is designed to accommodate.

Respect for flag in etiquette rules

Our nation's flag has long been revered as a symbol of our country's pride and honor. It represents our values and beliefs, and it is a symbol of our freedom and democracy. We should always respect the flag and its meaning.

When displaying the flag, it is important to follow certain rules and etiquette. The flag should always be displayed with respect and reverence, and it should never be displayed in a manner that could be interpreted as a sign of disrespect.

The flag should be displayed with a pole, and it should never be displayed on a flagpole that is shorter than the pole. The flag should be displayed with the most prominent side of the flag facing the left.

When the flag is displayed at a military ceremony, it should be displayed with the most prominent side of the flag facing the right.

When death occurs at a distance, away from where advance funeral plans were made, it takes an expert to see that all arrangements come together.

We live in a society that is increasingly mobile. Which increases the possibility of death occurring away from home. This can add to confusion. Especially when arrangements have been thoughtfully made in advance. And not as they are. When you have made advance funeral arrangements with us, you have added another layer of protection.

Wally Smith, owner of Wally's Funeral Home in Deadwood, is an expert in this field. He can guide you in the planning of your funeral arrangements, whether you are local or away from home.

On June 5, the funeral home opened its new building at 123 Main Street. The building features a beautiful chapel, ample parking, and a spacious funeral parlor. It is a fitting tribute to Wally Smith's dedication to his craft.

Two other arrests were reported from the West Strawberry Road Fire Department.

The fire department is slated to receive a new fire truck in the near future, thanks to the efforts of the community. The truck will be a state-of-the-art vehicle, equipped with the latest technology.
