Home-grown marijuana confiscated

Parolee General Hospital's plant is bold with growing projects, according to Phillip Peil, head of the patient care services. "The effort is to respond to a need of the patients and to provide a recreational outlet," he said.

"At the same time, the effort is also to provide a recreational outlet," Peil said. "The patients are able to cultivate their own marijuana plants as a form of therapy."

The program, which began last year, is designed to provide a therapeutic outlet for patients. "The patients are able to engage in a recreational activity, which is beneficial for their mental health," Peil said.

A total of 15 plants were confiscated from the parolee general hospital's plant. The plants were valued at approximately $3,000.

Renovation plans progressing at PGH

PGH, the patient care services, will be moving to a new location in the near future. The new location will allow for more efficient operation and increased patient care services.

The new location is currently under construction and is scheduled for completion in the next six months. The project includes the expansion of the current facility, as well as the construction of new buildings to accommodate the increased patient population.

"The project is a major undertaking," Peil said. "We are pleased with the progress that has been made so far and look forward to the completion of the project."

While Our Boss Is At Sea, Cable Hookups Are Free!

It's not an everyday occurrence, but when the boss is away, we take it from there. We figure, the best way to get a lot of cable hookups is to give them away. And in a way, you get cable perfection, all those great cable channels you've never imagined until now, which goes into effect July 15. And the best part is, the boss doesn't have anything to do. He never knew he was gone.
