Recent statistics between high schools and community colleges are noted in the opinions of the students. Dr. William Edmonson, head of a gathering of non-school officials in the Panola school system, was invited to speak at the Panola College forum last week. The high school counselors, superintendents and principals are invited to the college for consultation and discussions.

The relationship between the colleges and high schools is a vital component of the college system. The counseling department in the high schools is vital for most students to continue their education.

A visit to the college was planned for the high school students to help them understand the college environment. Dr. Edmonson said that this visit is vital for the students to continue their education.

Panola County history is hidden in names

Know Your Heritage by Leila B. LaGrone

People often call me to ask if they should write down names they hear as they research their families. As someone who has been a genealogist for many years, I understand the importance of preserving these names. It is a way to honor our ancestors and keep their stories alive.

Panola County, like many other counties in the United States, has a rich history filled with stories of families who have lived and worked here. The names of these families are often passed down through generations, but sometimes, they are lost or forgotten. That is why it is important to document and preserve these names.

To help you with this, I have compiled a list of names from various sources, including family histories, local newspapers, and historical records. I hope this list will help you in your research, and I encourage you to use it to honor the families who have made Panola County their home.

STRENGTH FOR LIVING

BY JERRY BURRIS

Christianity is a physical blessing for those who believe in it. It provides comfort in times of need, hope in times of despair, and a sense of community among believers. It teaches us how to live a life of purpose and meaning, and it offers guidance in decision-making.

The fundamental aspects of Christianity are the core beliefs about God, the life and teachings of Jesus Christ, and the principles of faith and love. These beliefs are the foundation of the Christian faith, and they provide a framework for living a fulfilling life.

Columbus' Voyage Marked An Invisible Path For Others

When he crossed the Atlantic, he'd taken the lead. Plenty of others had the same idea he would succeed. In searching the ocean and finding new ground to claim, he opened the long voyages across.

He never told his story, but did share the tale For others to follow and in the day Of adventure, in which they discovered new land. In accordance with what he believed and heard; And that courage and daring were always the case. For our nation's explorers new journeys to seek. To roam or learn it, wherever you ride. Like the faith of Columbus, let God be your guide.
