BISD superintendent getting acquainted with demands of job

By LAURA MIRE

Bisbee Eyez now superintendent is expected to turn a bit of his first weeks job over.

Dr. Ulrich Wallace plans to do a lot of listening and a lot of studying before he makes any major decisions.

"I want to get a feel for what's already being done," he said.

Wednesday was his first day on the job. By the time and facility prepared to start the second meeting today, Wallace will have focused on learning the district's "turf." He is scheduled to tour the school before he meets with the first meeting.

Wallace said he would like to meet all district parents by next Thursday. He also plans to go into the school daily to get a feel for how the district is run.

"I believe there are some things that you can really get a feeling for just by walking around," he said. "I think there's a lot of things you can get a feel for just by walking around."
