Lake lease case set for summer

Water board postpones further discussion

By LESTER BROWN

The Panola County Water Board has postponed further discussion of the Lakelease case until later this summer. The board held a meeting last week to discuss the issue, but decided that more information was needed before making a decision. The case involves a lease agreement between the county and a private developer, who wants to build a resort on a lake in the county. The board will meet again in June to discuss the issue further.

Judges advise owners to seek legal counsel

The judge presiding over the case advises owners to seek legal counsel before making any decisions. The judge also noted that the case is complex and that owners should be aware of all possible outcomes before proceeding. The case is set for trial in September, and the judge urged owners to take the time to understand the legal implications before making any decisions.

Take no chances with rabies; get children treated now

By LASSEY NEAL

The Panola County Health Department has issued a reminder to parents to get their children treated for rabies if they have been exposed to a rabid animal. Rabies is a potentially fatal disease that can be contracted from the saliva of infected animals, and is most commonly found in wild animals such as bats, raccoons, and foxes. If a child has been exposed to a rabid animal, it is important to seek medical attention immediately to prevent the disease from spreading.

Vaccination of children exposed to the bite begins.

Several cases of rabies have been reported in the county in recent months, and it is important to get children vaccinated if they have been exposed to a rabid animal. The Panola County Health Department has set up a program to vaccinate children who have been exposed to a rabid animal, and parents are urged to contact the health department for more information.
