Holiday frolicking

The New York state Division of Criminal Justice Services has revised the parole conditions for parolees. Effective December 1, 2003, all parolees in New York State will be required to have a valid driver's license.

According to the new policy, parolees will be required to have a valid driver's license at all times, except when they are in a state or federal prison or other secure facility. Violators of this policy will be subject to revocation of parole.

The changes in parole conditions are designed to enhance public safety and reduce the risk of parolee reoffending. The policy also requires parolees to keep their addresses current and to notify their parole officer of any change of address.

Wastewater plant nears completion

New $3.9 million system promises cleaner discharge

By SHERRI KROON

The new wastewater treatment plant in Carthage is expected to begin operation in June 2003. The plant is designed to treat an average of 1.9 million gallons of wastewater per day.

The plant is being constructed by the city of Carthage and is expected to be fully operational by September 2003. The plant will be the first of its kind in the region and is expected to significantly reduce the amount of pollutants entering the local waterways.

The new system, according to city officials, will allow for more efficient treatment and will reduce the amount of pollutants discharged into the environment.

The plant is being funded through a combination of local and federal grants. The project is expected to cost approximately $3.9 million.

The new system is expected to be fully operational by September 2003.
Phillies streak ended by Astros at 10 wins

When Shane Victorino went down with a torn ACL, the Philadelphia Phillies found themselves facing a different kind of challenge. The team, which had been relying heavily on his speed and agility in center field, had to make some quick adjustments. Fortunately, they had a talented player in Domonic Brown ready to step up and fill the void.

Brown, who had been primarily used as a pinch runner, showed he could handle the job in center field. His ability to cover a lot of ground and make quick decisions allowed the Phillies to keep their opponents guessing. They knew that Brown could run, but they couldn't be sure how he would perform defensively.

The Astros, on the other hand, were well-prepared for the new challenge. They had been watching Brown closely and knew that he was a threat. But they weren't expecting him to be quite as good as he ended up being.

In the end, it was Brown's speed and agility that proved too much for the Astros. He was able to make key plays on the basepaths, which helped the Phillies to pull away and win the game.

The victory was a big boost for the Phillies, who had been struggling to find their rhythm in recent weeks. It also showed that they could still win games even when facing unexpected challenges.

For the Astros, it was a humbling experience. They had been counting on Victorino to help them take the next step as a team. Now, they would have to find a way to adjust and continue to compete against one of the best teams in the league.
