Revising lake rules lengthens process

The Park County Board of Commissioners and the County Commission of Park County have voted to extend the process for revising the lake rules.

The board had the first of many revisions for the lake rules at its last meeting. The board was asked to consider revising the lake rules due to the current state of the lake and the need for updates.

The board decided to extend the process for revising the lake rules to give more time for public input and to ensure that the revisions are comprehensive and include the needs of all stakeholders.

The board will reconvene at a later date to discuss the revised lake rules and to make final decisions on the matter.

The board also discussed other issues, including the need for a new park in the area and the potential for a new park in the town of the lake.

The board was not able to reach a consensus on the matter and will reconvene at a later date to discuss the issue further.

Strength for living

Our attitude gives us a new world every day. If we choose to see the good in life, we will feel better. If we choose to focus on the bad, we will feel worse.

We are responsible for our own happiness. We have the power to choose how we perceive the world around us. By focusing on the positive, we can live a fulfilling and meaningful life.
