Cattlemen’s Association OK water, sewer rate increases

By SHERRY KOONCE

Beginning August 1, water and sewer rates will go up for Panola County residents as the Cattlemen’s Association approved approximately a 3% across-the-board increase Friday morning for the first time in the price of water since 1997.

According to county manager Charles Thorton, “the price increase was calculated solely on the cost per 1,000 gallons used, and does not include any sewer costs. The 3% increase equals $0.2071 per 1,000 gallons used, or $0.150 per 1,000 gallons used for water only.”

Water rates start at $3.27 per 1,000 gallons used for the first 1,000 gallons used, and then increase by $0.015 for each additional 1,000 gallons used. For example, a customer using 3,000 gallons per month would see an increase of $0.465 to their bill per month.

The increase is effective August 1 for all residents, not just those who already have a water bill from the county. Thorton said the increase is needed to cover the cost of providing water services to Panola County residents.

The world of rodeo cowboy's lifestyle

Rodeo is not just a sport; it's a lifestyle. A professional rodeo cowboy doesn't just compete in rodeo events; they are dedicated to their craft and passionate about their animals. This lifestyle requires a great deal of hard work and dedication, with days filled with training, practice, and competition. Rodeo cowboys are known for their exceptional skills, which are honed through years of practice and experience. They live and breathe rodeo, and their passion is evident in every aspect of their lives.

Big win depends on cowboy, livestock

The success of a professional rodeo event is highly dependent on the quality of the livestock being used. The livestock must be well-trained and well-conditioned to perform at their best. Rodeo cowboys work closely with their horses and cattle to ensure that they are ready for the events they will be competing in. This requires a great deal of time, effort, and dedication from both the cowboy and the livestock.

It was the first rodeo in the world to exceed $1 million in gate revenue. By 1995, the Panola County Cattlemen's Association Rodeo had reached $2 million in gate revenue, and in 1996, it reached $3 million. The rodeo has continued to grow, and in 2000, it reached $5 million in gate revenue.

Support teams play important part

Not everyone in rodeo is a rider. Some of the work is done behind the scenes. Rodeos succeed because of the hard work of the support teams.

Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association contract personnel includes grounds crew, announcer, gate operator, announcer, scorekeeper, and clapper. Rodeo queens,>Pick-up men, clown, barrelman, and bullfighter all play a role in the rodeo.

The rodeo itself is a show, and its success depends on the performers. The clapper keeps the rodeo on schedule, and the bullfighter keeps the bull under control.

The responsibility of the announcer is to keep the audience informed about the events. The gate operator controls the entry and exit of riders and animals.

The rodeo is a team effort, and each team member plays a vital role. Without the support teams, the rodeo would not be possible.

Computer system aids rodeo contestants

A computer system is being implemented at the 45th Annual Panola County Cattlemen’s Association PRCA Rodeo to assist with the scoring of events. The system uses advanced technology to accurately and efficiently score each participant. It will track the performance of each rider in real-time, providing instant feedback on their scores. The system will be used to ensure fairness in the event and will help to reduce the time it takes to score each entry. The computer system will also be used to manage the statistics of each participant, keeping track of their scores and providing a comprehensive database for future reference.
Roots of sport go back to Old West lifestyle

Rodeo was born on the Western plains of young America. The exact details of the sport’s birth, however, remains a mystery. While several towns and regions of the Old West often lay claim to various “firsts,” and while there is some conflicting evidence, there is solid evidence positively linking the origins of rodeos exist.

Unfortunately, the great cattle drives of the late 1800s played a major role in the development of the sport, as riders faced daily and constant challenges to keep the cattle on track. When needed, a rider would jump off his horse, grab a handful of hay, and using his own strength, he’d be able to push the cattle along.

The rodeo of today has evolved into a modern sport that is enjoyed by millions of people worldwide. It features events such as bull riding, bronc riding, barrel racing, and team roping.

Rodeo week filled with fun, thrills, excitement

A full slate of events is scheduled during Rodeo Week at the Panola County Fairgrounds in Carthage. This year’s Rodeo Week will be held May 16-21 at the Caruthers Plaza.

A variety of activities are scheduled throughout the week, including a parade, a rodeo, and a western-themed dance.

Circuits offer advantages to part-time competitors

Although most of today's professional rodeo competitors are full-time, there are still a few circuits that cater to part-time riders. These circuits provide an opportunity for those athletes who are not able to compete full-time to still be active in the sport and stay competitive. The PRCA offers a variety of circuits that cater to different levels of athleticism, allowing riders to compete in events that match their skill level. This diversity in competition helps to ensure that everyone has a chance to succeed, regardless of their riding style or level of expertise.
